

All Direct Relief in Fulton County May Be Shut Off in May

Two-Mill Levy Proposal Made By Grand Jury

Commissioners Must Act Today on Recommended Slash in Tax.

All direct relief to unemployables in Fulton county may be shut off by the middle of May, it was learned yesterday after the March-April grand jury recommended a two-mill relief levy.

Hughes Spalding, county attorney, said the action of the jury in recommending a levy three-quarters of a mill less than that recommended by the January-February grand jury automatically made it mandatory upon the county commissioners to set the levy at one and one-quarter mills unless the present grand jury rescinds its action before the commissioners complete their budget meeting. He explained that the law required that the two consecutive juries recommend the same levy.

Tax Action Today.

The commissioners, by law, must set the levy today.

Relief officials said that direct relief spending during the first three months of the year had been based on the assumption that two and three-quarters mills would be available under the budget and that a levy of one and one-quarter mills would mean that operations of the agency would have to end with the exhaustion of funds, about the middle of May.

Hope was held by some members of the commission, however, that the levy could legally be set at the lowest recommendation of the grand jury—the 2-mill levy recommended yesterday.

Special Levy Plan.

If this proves possible, the funds which have previously been spent for hospitalization and for such agencies as the Red Cross and the Community Chest could be provided for in a special 1-mill levy which the commissioners are empowered to make. This would leave the total revenue from the 2-mill levy for direct relief, with the hospital and charitable agencies provided for separately.

Three-quarters of a mill of the 2.75 mills under which relief has been operating has been allotted in the past year to the hospitals and to the charitable agencies.

Though hopeful that some means could be found of establishing the levy at 2 mills, with an additional levy for other purposes, two of the five-man commissioners were agreed last night that reduction to 1.25 mills would render the relief situation practically hopeless.

Harshly Feared.

"We will, of course, follow the recommendations of the grand jury as our legal department interprets them for us," Dr. Charles R. Adams, member of the commission, declared. "But to reduce the levy will work a great hardship upon the administration of welfare."

Commissioner Troy Chastain said that such a reduction would so reduce revenue the department of welfare would have little left over administrative costs.

"To keep going, both recipients of relief and administrators would have to be cut more than half," he said.

The grand jury, in its failure to comply with recommendation of the January-February grand jury, did so in the face of appeals from representatives of the League of Women Voters, plus the request of the county commission, with Brown and County Auditor James L. Respass speaking for the commission.

Mrs. J. D. Thomas, league president, told the grand jury the group of women voters was anxious for the relief levy to remain at the 2.75-mill level. She said her organization based its petition on firm belief in the integrity of the department of public welfare.

"We have followed the welfare department closely for years and know that the need for the funds asked is a real need," Mrs. Thomas said she told the jury.

"We just can't sit by and see thousands of children have their lives completely blighted because their parents are not able to provide them with enough food to keep them well and healthy," she added.

CIO Calls Strike Against Ford After 8-Hour Sit Down Paralyzing Production in Dearborn Factory

Workers Are Driven Off Production Line Before The Walkout

Four Departments of Huge Factory Involved in Stoppage; 20,000 Affected by Shutdown.

By THE UNITED PRESS.

DEARBORN, Mich., Wednesday, April 2.—A strike by the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO member) against the huge River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company—largest industrial unit in the world—was declared in force early today after the sprawling factory was paralyzed for eight hours last night by a UAW work stoppage.

The strike declaration was announced after the idle workers finally were called out of the plant late last night by the union. Union officials said more than 20,000 workers were affected by the strike.

"The strike is now on," said Norman Smith, one of the leaders in the UAW-CIO drive to organize approximately 98,000 workers in three Detroit plants of the Ford system.

Smith said the workers were being called to union headquarters for a mass meeting and vote to make the strike "official."

As workers were filing out of the plant at the end of an eight-hour siege, a joint statement authorizing a strike at River Rouge was issued by R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO, George Addes, union secretary-treasurer, and Michael F. Widman, head of the Ford organizing campaign.

"The international union has authorized a strike of all workers in the River Rouge plant of the Ford company," the statement said.

"The strike is to take effect at once. All workers are notified to leave the Rouge plant and to report at the Ford office of the union to prepare for picket duty Wednesday morning."

Earlier police said members of the UAW who, carrying hammers, files and clubs, forced workers off production lines in all major departments.

A union spokesman said the sit down was started late today after the company allegedly discharged four union organizing chairmen in the "B" building, pressed steel, rolling mill and rubber buildings.

Police Chief Carl Brooks of Dearborn said violence occurred in the 1,100-acre plant when workers wearing union buttons rushed from the "B" building.

Wisconsin Asks F.D.R. To Send Troops in Strike

Close To Avert Bloodshed—Governor.

By THE UNITED PRESS.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 1.—Governor Julius P. Heil tonight advised President Roosevelt by telegram that the Allis-Chalmers manufacturing plant will shut down tomorrow to avoid "bloodshed and possible loss of life."

Heil also requested that federal troops be dispatched to the plant side from the Sixth United States Army Corps headquarters at Chicago.

The appeal for troops was sent to Brigadier General Charles H. Bonsteel, Chicago, and a copy of the message was sent to Mr. Roosevelt.

In his message to the President, Heil said "I am notifying you so that you may take such action as you deem advisable. In the meantime I am instructing the company to close the plant."

Heil requested 5,000 troops, it was said.

Sources declining to be identified, quoted a company telephone call to a high government official at Washington as follows:

"The serious condition at the Allis-Chalmers plant compels me to request the President to guarantee law and order. The situation is out of hand here and the further fact that a half-holiday of the CIO is being considered makes it impossible for Allis-Chalmers to operate."

Police Chief Carl Brooks of Dearborn said violence occurred in the 1,100-acre plant when workers wearing union buttons rushed from the "B" building.

British Troops Take Asmara; Prepare for Drive on Massaua

CAIRO, Egypt, April 1.—(AP)—line linking Addis Ababa and the British Imperial forces today took Asmara, the capital of Italian Eritrea, GHQ announced here, and thus opened the way for a thrust by rail and motor roads to Massaua, a Red sea port and the colony's only good harbor.

The Italians had fought a bloody delaying action in defense of the city since the fall on March 26 of the Heights of Cheren, and its loss put the British in position to strike a perhaps fatal blow at all Italian resistance in Eritrea.

In Ethiopia, a British column was reported driving on toward Addis Ababa, the capital, from the strategic base provided by captured Dire Dawa—which commands the cross country roads and a rail line linking Addis Ababa and the gulf of Aden port of Jibuti. From Dire Dawa came official news that British forces entering the town had found its remaining Italian inhabitants "being injured" by deserters from the disorganized Fascist colonial army.

The extent of this native rising against the Italians—who had conquered Ethiopia in 1936 and now stand to lose it all—was not stated. Asmara's fall put the second Italian colonial capital in British hands—Mogadiscio in Italian Somaliland having been taken February 26.

The British command reported heavy action by British bombers in both colonies. A communique told, too, of renewed action in Italian Libya.

ROLLING FORTRESS—Milwaukee's tear gas spewing mobile fortress is seen in action near the Allis-Chalmers plant. The huge armored steel vehicle at right is emitting gas evidently for benefit of the sound-equipped strikers' car at left. The fortress was highly effective in dispersing picket mobs until last night when a gas bomb exploded inside. The police crew quickly abandoned the truck, and strikers splashed it with red paint.

U.S. Ignoring Axis Demands To Return Ships

Justice Department Orders Immediate Criminal Prosecutions.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—In the face of Axis demands for the release of 30 ships and their crews seized by the United States, the Justice Department late today ordered immediate criminal prosecutions in all cases of sabotage.

Secretary of State Hull indicated that the protests were receiving scant consideration and would have no effect on the government's policy.

(In Berlin today, a German government spokesman charged that "the law has been solemnly suspended" in the United States' ship action. However, he said he was not yet authorized to make a strictly official declaration.)

French Not Affected.

Gaston Henry Haye, the French ambassador, told reporters after a visit to the State Department that it was his "understanding" that no United States action was contemplated against French merchant vessels in American ports.

He said he was given to understand that French and other foreign ships in American harbors might, however, be subjected to surveillance.

With German and Italian notes of protest against the seizures facing certain rejection, other western hemisphere countries raced against a widespread scuttling campaign to get possession of Axis merchantmen in their waters.

On the basis of Coast Guard reports that one of the two German and at least 20 of the 28 Italian vessels in American waters had been critically crippled by their crews, Attorney General Jackson ordered district attorneys at the various ports to begin prosecutions under a law penalizing the sabotage of any ship, foreign or domestic, in territorial waters.

To File Charges.

Immigration officials have arrested 875 officers and seamen from the seized ships and officials indicated that the sabotage charges would be filed against the masters and as many of the sailors as might have been directly involved. They would face maximum penalties of 20 years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

President Roosevelt, declining to indicate what disposition might

Nine Axis Ships Destroyed in Latin America

Scuttled and Burned; 15 Others Taken Into Protective Custody.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Nine Axis merchantmen, totaling 44,468 tons, were burned or scuttled by their crews in Latin American ports yesterday while 15 others aggregating 88,432 tons were taken in protective custody to forestall sabotage.

The 24-hour toll thus was brought to 11 ships destroyed and 16 seized as Latin-American governments followed suit on the lead of the United States in seizing Axis and Danish ships last weekend.

As Mexican naval detachments closed in to seize 12 Axis ships harbored at Tampico and Vera Cruz, totaling 71,687 tons, the captain of the 2,005-ton Italian tanker Atlas had his crew open the sea cocks and the vessel was slowly sinking in the Panuco river at Tampico.

Peruvian troops meanwhile seized the hangar, workshop and two transport planes of the German airline, Lufthansa, at a Lima airport, and operation of the line in Peru was reported forbidden.

A high source said the government ordered military occupation of the German civil air base at the Lima Tambo airport to prevent the departure of an airliner on a scheduled run. There was no official explanation.

The troops and police swarmed into the properties about midnight Monday, ordered everyone off the premises and established

Hundreds of Rivers' Pardons May Be Revoked; Fraud Hinted

Witnesses Tell Fulton Grand Jury Letters Sent Former Governor Bore Forged Signatures; Parolees May Be Returned to Prison.

Possibility that many of the hundreds of persons pardoned during the closing days of Governor Rivers' administration would be returned to prison to serve out uncompleted sentences was apparent yesterday when it was learned that the Fulton grand jury was investigating reported instances of fraud in securing pardons.

Witnesses called by the jury have testified that letters addressed to Governor Rivers asking executive clemency for convicts bore forged signatures and untrue statements, several such witnesses claimed after leaving the jury room.

Pardons obtained by fraud are subject to revocation and the pardoned individual is liable to be called before the courts to show why he, or she, should not be returned to prison to complete unfinished jail terms, according to legal opinions.

The grand jury inquiry is being conducted under a proceeding entitled "The State vs. Leo Farrell." Farrell was a reporter, but resigned from The Constitution about a year ago. He now is working on a newspaper in Washington.

Farrell is reported to have advised the grand jury of willingness to appear and give what testimony may be required. He has not been subpoenaed.

One witness, it was learned, was confronted by the grand jury with a letter he was supposed to have written to Governor Rivers stating that he would give employment to a certain convict in his trucking concern, provided the prisoner was pardoned.

The witness told the grand jury he never had seen the letter before, that the signature was a forgery and that the purported facts were all false.

Another witness claimed that a letter supposedly written by him was likewise a forgery. In addition, witnesses are claimed to have admitted to the jury

Italy Launches Nazi-Belgrade Peace Efforts

Hitler Reported Massing Parachute Troops at Yugoslav Borders.

BELGRADE, Wednesday, April 2.—(UP)—Desperate Italian diplomatic efforts to prevent war between Yugoslavia and Germany at all costs were reported under way today as battalions of German parachute troops and Alpine regiments massed at Yugoslavia's heavily defended frontiers.

The Nazi parachute troops, many of them veterans of the "blitzkrieg" across the low countries last year, were reported concentrating at frontiers where key roads have been mined and barricaded by the Yugoslav army and where troop trains are pouring thousands of fresh soldiers into defense positions.

Diplomats in Belgrade reported that Italy is ready to mediate between Yugoslavia and Germany for a peaceful solution, but, for reasons of prestige, Premier Mussolini wants the initiative to appear to originate with New Yugoslav government of Premier Simovic.

Because it is hardly possible for Simovic to leave his post, it is understood that the Italians have suggested that Vice Premier Jovanovic, nationally known Serb jurist and expert in international treaties, accompany Foreign Minister Nincic to Rome to arrange for Italian mediation.

Under the Fascist formula, it was reported in diplomatic circles, the Yugoslav government would send a letter to Mussolini asking him to mediate, but thus far no concrete steps are understood to have been taken in that direction.

Italy's move appeared to have been timed to coincide with efforts of Yugoslavia's Croat population to avoid war at all costs and reach a working agreement with the Serbian-dominated Simovic government.

At the Serbian capital of Zagreb, after day-long talks Tuesday, Dr. Macek, the Serb leader who has hesitated to remain as

Cool Courage Saves Private After 'Chute Fouls on Plane

A quick-thinking parachute trooper saved his own life at Fort Benning yesterday afternoon after he had floated suspended from the tail of a plane for five or six minutes. His 'chute caught on the tail surfaces, he waited until the pilot of the ship had gained altitude and then pulled the cord of his emergency parachute.

The jumper, Private First Class Stanley K. Findlay, was participating in a mass jump over the 501st Parachute Battalion's jumping field on the banks of the Chattahoochee. Findlay is a member of the battalion's Company B.

Fort Benning officers, in describing the presence of mind of Findlay, said he had his vital decision to make when the canopy of his parachute caught on the tail of the squad plane and held him captive in the air behind it "for a long five minutes." The plane's pilot, seeing the trooper's predicament, promptly gained altitude to protect the parachutist should he free himself and use the second or emergency 'chute worn by all members of the battalion in training jumps. He gained altitude from 1,200 to 1,500 feet and continued making the wide circle customary for the battalion's planes when dropping 'chutists.

Findlay decided, officers said, that his best chance lay in pulling the cord of his emergency 'chute and trusting that the shock of its billowing would serve to

South Urged To Aid Defense By Boosting Dairy Production

Place Accent on Poultry Also as Means of Improving Nutrition Program, Wickard Urges Farm Women at Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(P)—Secretary Wickard recommended to southern farm women today that they aid in the national defense through nutrition programs built around increased production of poultry and dairy products.

Fire Destroys Four Houses Near Hospital

Block of Structures Threatened by Two-Hour Blaze.

Fire thought to have originated in a paraffin pot in the rear of the residence of J. G. Collier at 139 Moore street, S. E., yesterday destroyed four houses and threatened a block of close-packed structures near Grady hospital before firemen after a two-hour battle brought it under control.

The Collier residence and two small structures in the rear were destroyed and the residence of the Rev. Alonzo C. Cobb at 145 Moore street was badly damaged. Slight damage was done to the residence of Mrs. Annie Yalovitz at 133 Moore street.

Protected by a firewall, the garage and repair shop of the Atlantic Ice & Coal Company on Gilmer street was undamaged, though the flaming structures in the rear of the Moore street houses abutted directly upon it.

Collier, who deals in bottles and cans, said he had a wood fire going under a paraffin pot in a shed at the rear of his home, where he was preparing to coat some cans.

Though he was not home at the time, it was possible, he said, that the flames had spread to the shed, and from it had set the close-packed jumble of buildings ablaze.

He spoke to 43 representatives of home demonstration clubs in 13 southern states, with a membership of about 400,000 farm women.

Mrs. J. L. Williams, of Ninety-Six, S. C., chairman of the group, volunteered the services of the southern clubs for any kind of nutrition or home welfare program that the Agriculture Department might consider beneficial to the national defense. She pleaded for an increase in the department's home demonstration force, asking that agents be sent to all needy rural areas.

Wickard told the women that sections of the country which produced poultry and dairy products on a commercial scale should not oppose an increase in production, of such farm commodities in the south, because it would not displace their markets. The effect of such a program, he added, would be to supply a large population with vital foods they had been doing without in their diet.

Besides South Carolina and Texas, other states represented at the conference were Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Virginia.

LAST CARLOADS—They did not seem worried about prospects for early return to their jobs when this last group of coal miners trundled up yesterday from the depths of Montour mine No. 10 at Pittsburgh. Behind the grime on those faces are unmistakable smiles. The nation's soft coal mines were tied up in strike yesterday, but the pinch wasn't felt yet, because it was a miners' holiday anyway. Whether 330,000 men would return to work today rested with a handful of men around a conference table in New York.

Strikes Cost Million Man-Hours

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(P)—The Labor Department said today approximately 1,000,000 man days of idleness were involved in 240 strikes during February.

The number of strikes was 20 more than were listed in January but workers involved numbered 60,000 as compared with 65,000 in January.

Knox was the Washington listener. During the telephone conversation, these advisers said, an Allis-Chalmers official said that Heil and Milwaukee county authorities had requested closing of the plant.

At least 31 persons were injured during an hour-long melee at the factory gates late in the afternoon. Police fired many charges of tear gas bombs into the massed pickets. Strikers threw bricks in return, smashing plant windows and striking two policemen.

(The Associated Press said that earlier in the day, hundreds of windows of the company's main office and laboratory were broken, automobiles, including that of Governor Heil, were smashed and damaged; an eight-foot fence was torn down and the Governor himself stoned as he tried to leave the shop office in which he had taken refuge.)

Bloodshed Feared.

The reported appeal to Knox was believed to have been made in view of his joint appeal with William S. Knudsen, director general of the Office of Production Management, for reopening of the plant on $45,000,000 worth of key-defense orders.

The plant closed last Friday, in defiance of the CIO 10-week strike. But the union rejected the plea.

The company official's telephone message to Washington said: "We are certain bloodshed will result and possibly death if we keep the plant open tomorrow."

"We are anxious to work," the official said, "but we do not feel justified under the present conditions."

Authorities had announced earlier that they feared a general sympathy holiday of CIO members in the city's industries Wednesday.

Vinson Strike Plan Declined By Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(P)—President Roosevelt today turned thumbs down, for the present at least, on a newly introduced bill which would give him vast new authority to take over defense factories tied up by strikes.

Offered a few hours earlier by Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the House Naval Committee, the measure would permit the government to take possession of any defense factory after the President had found that "an existing or threatened failure of production . . . is such as to interfere with, or hamper, delay or impede the national defense."

But Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference that the defense media board he recently created was getting along all right, and he indicated that he saw no necessity at present for taking new legislative steps to curb the strikes that have dotted the defense landscape.

Give and Take. He expressed belief that existing machinery should be given a trial, to see whether the situation could be worked out in a spirit of give and take and with an understanding that the defense program should not be slowed up.

Vinson, meanwhile, obtained House Rules Committee approval and the prospect of house action tomorrow on his resolution providing for investigations by the House Military and Naval Committee of the progress of the defense program seemed likely. The two investigations would be separate. Vinson announced that his would include strikes.

The Vinson plant seizure measure, proposed as an amendment to the conscription law, would broaden considerably presidential power regarding the conscription of defense industries.

Strikes Outlawed. If the government took over a factory, Vinson indicated, a strike would virtually be outlawed. "I feel that this would stop further strikes in those plants," he said. "It is unwritten law that you cannot strike against the government."

Introduction of the measure followed reports of the last several days that congress soon would receive some such legislation. Some of these reports had indicated the proposal would have administration backing. Vinson, usually an administration supporter, said, however, that his bill was introduced on "my own hook."

housing final assemblies, to the fabricating plant and broke down doors in an attempt to drive out other employees.

Ford officials called for all available police protection and Brooks immediately requested Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner for aid from the state police. Rioters went to Gate 4, main entrance of the Rouge plant, and attempted to quell the disorders. Widman said the cessation of Union members, acting in groups, allegedly attempted to stop production in the new tool and die shop by breaking windows and turning off machines. Some operators, however, reportedly switched the machines back on and resumed work.

The violence resulted in the call for Dearborn police and Chief Brooks sent a squad of 110 men to the plant.

Governor Van Wagoner said he doubted whether he could send state police into the plant without a specific court order for removal of the workers.

Governor Calls Parley. Van Wagoner, in Detroit for a political speech, summoned his executive secretary, his legal advisor and State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander from the capital at Lansing to confer with him on the request.

Meanwhile he sent a special mediation commission to talk to the union and company representatives in an effort to halt the sit-down. Van Wagoner appointed the special commission last month when the union filed notice of intention to strike the River Rouge and two other Detroit plants of the Ford company.

Early Truce Expected in Coal Strike

Fatal Shooting Reported as Violence Flares in Kentucky Fields.

NEW YORK, April 1.—(P)—The nation's bituminous operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) called a short recess late today amid strong indications that an agreement—with concessions by both sides—was near.

The operators were understood to be starting a private caucus to draw up a set of tentative proposals which would be acceptable to the union.

Sources close to the operators indicated these would include the miners' strongest demand—a $1-a-day increase and elimination of the 40-cent differential now existing among north and south miners.

In return for the granting of this point, the miners were believed to be agreeable to dropping their other principal demands—a guaranteed 200-work-day-year and vacations with pay.

Naval Welding Time Halved by Atlanta Man

D. B. Hunt Gives Process to Government To Aid Defense.

A remote-control welding device, invented by an Atlantan, D. B. Hunt, welding engineer with the Southern Railway, may revolutionize the national defense program and cut in half the time necessary to build the contemplated two-ocean navy and the air force.

Hunt, who lives at 484 Brentwood drive, N. E., spent most of his spare time in the past year and a half perfecting his invention, and believes it will cut the welding operations for building warships from 25 to 50 per cent.

Electric companies throughout the country are seeking the invention, and the Westinghouse company, after sending representatives to witness demonstrations, asked permission to manufacture the machine. The Navy has announced it will be used in the construction of its ships.

The importance and value of the invention is that it will considerably shorten the time consumed by welding engineers in making the adjustments in the electrical charge necessary in welding operations. Under the old type of electric welding, the operator had frequently to change the current by a manually operated machine. As many as six changes had to be made in an hour, and the operator lost much time. By using the new machine the operator can make the six changes in no more than six seconds.

A. D. Snipes, industrial engineer for Westinghouse, said, "Hunt's invention will definitely cut down the time required in building naval vessels. How much time it will save I cannot yet say."

Emergency Priority.

Te Navy has found the need for the device so great that it is arranging to issue emergency priorities for its manufacture. The inventor is donating it to the Navy as his part in the national defense program.

Only 34 years old, Hunt is a native of Haralson county. He has studied at Georgia Tech and other schools. This is not his only invention. His others include a process for welding manganese steel and a method for welding steel rails.

Crash Near Wreckage

Of Plane Kills Fliers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 1. (P)—Two Army fliers from Kelly Field crashed to their deaths today near the wreckage of another plane and its dead pilot toward which they were leading a ground searching party.

The buried plane and body of Flying Cadet E. Lawrence Hastings Jr., 25, of Lexington, Ill., were found shortly after Captain David N. Crickette, 31, Byron, Ill., and Technical Sergeant Bert L. Williams, of Santo, were killed in the rough cedar-brake country near New Braunfels.

Members of the ground party said Captain Crickette's plane suddenly went out of control while circling the wreckage, crashed on a rocky hillside and burst into flames.

22,000 Mark Is Reached in Red Cross Call

Western Union Turns in 530 Memberships.

Memberships in the current Red Cross Roll Call yesterday climbed to above 22,000, it was announced by Oby T. Brewer, chairman.

Two factors helped swell the total. Pay day and the fact that the Western Union turned in a total of 530 memberships, the largest single report to date.

Booths in central locations rang up a total of 135 memberships yesterday, with returns from that division, under Miss Byrd Blankenship, still incomplete. All such booths will remain open throughout the balance of this week.

Praise for the high total of memberships turned in by Western Union went to L. W. Pelot, chairman, assisted by C. L. Willmarth, Mrs. M. E. Simmons, Mrs. M. O. Quisenberry, Miss Mary Starr, Miss Mamie Bant and Miss Lillian Newborn.

Chairman Brewer yesterday called upon all roll call workers to complete assignments within the next few days and turn in reports in order to make final tabulations available at the close of the drive Saturday.

Japanese Release British Missionary

PEIPING, April 1. (P)—The Japanese embassy announced today the release of Allen Benson, British missionary arrested last August 27 on suspicion of organizing an anti-Japanese secret society among Chinese churchgoers. Benson is an employee of the British Assembly of God mission at Kalgan, northwest of Peiping. Twenty Chinese were arrested with him.

Non-Japanese sources said at the time of Benson's arrest that he just had organized a Chinese Bible study class.

A. G. Edwards Named Union Seminary Officer

Albert G. Edwards, who last summer served as assistant to the minister of the Inman Park Presbyterian church, has been elected secretary of the student body of the Union Theological Seminary at Richmond, according to word received in Atlanta yesterday. He will also serve next year as assistant business manager of the seminary's weekly publication.

Edwards is a graduate of Georgia Tech and a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Ice Cream Sandwiches Taken From School

DeKalb county police yesterday were seeking information that might lead to the arrest of a thief who took approximately five dozen ice cream sandwiches from the lunch shop at Rehoboth school on Lawrenceville road.

Ice cream has been stolen from the lunchroom on several other occasions, but not in such large quantities, Mrs. W. H. Haynie, principal, said. The thief apparently entered through a window found unlocked in the school office, it was said.

More Wood Needed, Danes Denude Forests

COPENHAGEN, (Via Berlin) April 1. (P)—Denmark just has ended a season of intensive tree-felling in an effort to meet her increased needs for wood.

Even roots were dug up for fuel. Much of the wood was cut for fuel in the new wood-burning generators on automobiles and trucks. Wooden shoes manufacture also is increasing.

Chestnuts are pressed for oil. Even nettles in cleared areas are harvested for fiber.

Macon Airport To Be Named For War Flyer

Will Honor Only Georgia Pilot Killed in First Conflict.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Representative Vinson, of Georgia, revealed today that the new $2,310,000 airport development at Macon will be named after the late Lieutenant Robert J. Cochran, of Camilla, the only Georgia Army Air Corps pilot killed in action during the last World War.

Vinson, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, joined with Macon officials in asking that the airport be named for Lieutenant Cochran, who was killed in France, October 10, 1918, while serving with the 8th Aero Squadron. Lieutenant Cochran was the son of G. B. Cochran, who still lives at Camilla.

The new Macon airport, when completed June 1, will be the base for an air corps flying school accommodating 2,000 officers and men, including 400 air corps cadets.

Sharecroppers Fewer By 234,987 Since 1930

WASHINGTON, April 1. (P)—The Census Bureau said today there were fewer sharecroppers now than at any time in the last two decades.

The 1940 census found 541,291 sharecroppers in 16 states, 234,987 less than in 1930.

The decline was attributed to increased use of power machinery which caused some landlords to discontinue leasing part of their land, and to programs assisting sharecroppers to buy their land.

Mississippi led in this type of farming, its 125,483 sharecroppers being more than double those in any other state.

Explosion in Destroyer Kills One, Injures Two

KEARNY, N. J., April 1. (UP)—An explosion in the hull of a destroyer under construction at the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company yards for the U. S. Navy today killed one workman and injured two others.

Company officials said the explosion apparently occurred when an acetylene torch ignited gas escaping from it. The dead man, Hugh Scullion, 31, and the injured men, Henry A. Boutot, 38, and Benjamin Ferneyhough, 41, were welders. Boutot was in critical condition from burns and shock. Ferneyhough's condition was not serious.

Shipyards workers said such accidents were not uncommon and may occur when the torch's flame ignites gas escaping from a leaking acetylene tank or connecting hose lines.

Curb on Imports Of Coffee Favored

WASHINGTON, April 1. (P)—The house of representatives today approved a joint resolution giving the President power to limit imports of coffee into the United States to the amount set by the Inter-American coffee agreement.

The resolution was passed on a roll call vote announced as 178 to 115.

Approval came after a lengthy debate in which opponents charged the imposition of quotas would increase the price of coffee to the consumer while supporters argued the agreement was necessary to implement the "good neighbor" policy.

The resolution now goes to the senate for action on a house amendment.

An empty house is more expensive than a Want Ad in The Constitution that will rent it.

NOW DOUBLY DELICIOUS! GOLDEN SOFT KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN! IT'S MADE FROM ONE OF THE WORLD'S FINEST WHEATS!

IT'S LIGHTER! CRISPER! TRY IT FOR TOMORROW'S BREAKFAST

FOR YEARS you've known KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN as a famous laxative cereal. Now try it for its taste as well!

IT'S DOUBLY DELICIOUS because it's made of finer quality bran from one of the world's softest wheats. The improved ALL-BRAN comes out of our toasters bright as shreds of gold. It's lighter! Crisper! More delicate! Be sure to ask your grocer for it today.

Making a good thing better is an old American custom. So, for years Kellogg's grain buyers, who buy more grain for ready-to-eat breakfast cereals than any other men in the world, have been seeking an ideal wheat for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. A few months ago, they found it growing in the sunny valleys of the Pacific Coast states and in a few midwestern and eastern areas.

It's one of the world's softest wheats—used for the finest pastry flour.

The bran from this wheat, put through ALL-BRAN's cooking and toasting ovens, came out bright as shreds of gold, and lighter, softer, crisper, more delicately flavored than any we had used in 20 years of making ALL-BRAN.

And now the improved and more delicious ALL-BRAN is at your grocer's.

If you or other members of your family are troubled with constipation due to lack of the right kind of "bulk" in the diet, try the improved ALL-BRAN! Or use it merely as a precaution against this common ailment. Be sure to eat it regularly, and drink plenty of water.

ALL-BRAN is made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. It is sold by grocers and served by restaurants everywhere.

FROM ONE OF THE WORLD'S FINEST WHEATS

OUT IN THE WEST, grain men are growing one of the world's softest wheats. It is used especially for the finest pastry flour. And it's from this marvelous wheat that Kellogg's gets its better bran for your favorite breakfast food.

Huey To Invite Windsors To Visit Georgia

Talmadge Emissary Will Be Given Private Interview Today.

By LUKE GREENE.

NASSAU, Bahamas Islands, March 30.—(By Air Mail)—The possibility that the Duke and Duchess of Windsor might visit Atlanta in the near future was strengthened today as Dr. H. G. Huey, of Homerville, looked forward to a private interview with the royal couple tomorrow.

As the personal emissary of Governor Talmadge, Dr. Huey expects to extend the invitation to visit the United States when he is presented to the Duke in the reception room of the rambling old Government House.

The meeting will be arranged by W. L. Heape, the colonial secretary of the Bahamas islands and acting governor during the Duke's absence on an inspection trip through the interior. The Duke is accompanied by the Duchess, the former Wallis Warfield.

Secretary Heape said today that the Duke and his wife were anxious to visit Georgia and the United States, and had been planning a trip for some time. It has been postponed because of the press of official business.

Although the Bahamas are a colonial possession of the British Empire, the islands so far seem to have been affected by the war no more than the United States. Money, materials and a few volunteers have been contributed by the islands.

The popularity of the Duke and Duchess, who have been ruling over the Bahamas for only a short period of time, is unquestioned. Democratic and unassuming, they have made a favorable impression on the natives and visitors alike. Yesterday Dr. Huey visited an unobtrusive looking barber shop and happened to select the barber who personally attends to the tonorial requirements of the Duke. His name is William George Albert Drudge.

Drudge pointed out that the island's Governor is shaved only in the afternoons "so he can look fresh for the evening." Drudge shaves the Duke each afternoon in a private parlor of the Government House.

The Government House, seat of the Bahamas government, is a large, colonial home with huge white columns. Over the grounds patrol uniformed Negro police, wearing white tropical hats and guns over their shoulders. Only persons with proper credentials can enter the grounds.

Dr. and Mrs. Huey have been permitted to roam through the spacious gardens of the estate and photograph the settings.

Today Dr. and Mrs. Huey, Mrs. Greene and I attended a cocktail party given by the new Windsor hotel, in the heart of downtown Nassau, for its visitors and officials of the island. The hotel was named for the Governor and his First Lady.

This afternoon Secretary and Mrs. Heape entertained at a tea. The popular couple were winners in a sailboat regatta, one of the principal sports of the island. Tomorrow they will entertain at a reception in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Huey.

School Board Jobs Believed Safe in Fulton

Opinion of Attorney Eases Minds of Clerical Employees.

Some 15 or 20 employees of the Fulton county school system had their minds put at rest yesterday when Edward R. Kane, school board attorney, tendered a written opinion that the jobs of the handful of clerical and maintenance help were not in danger of being lopped off.

The clerks, supervisors, bookkeepers and mechanics grew alarmed when Governor Talmadge vetoed an act passed by the general assembly on the closing day of the session empowering superintendents of county school systems to employ such help.

Kane's Opinion. However, according to the opinion of Attorney Kane, the act passed by the legislature in 1931, setting up the Fulton county board of education, gave this particular board "powers necessary in carrying out provisions of this act," which included, it was construed, the hiring of office help and the like.

It was learned that the bill introduced in the recent legislative session was brought about when a county school superintendent in a middle Georgia county was defeated for re-election.

The ousted superintendent had been employing his wife as his secretary. The school board of the county could not agree with the new superintendent that the woman should be replaced.

A letter asking for advice was dispatched by the new school head to M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, who in turn asked Attorney General Ellis Arnall for a ruling.

Delve Into Records. Arnall and his aides delved into musty records, pored through law books and constitutional matters, but could find nothing which gave the majority of Georgia county school boards power to legally employ secretaries and clerks, bookkeepers and supervisors.

Collins, it is said, was shocked. Most of the counties of the state were paying salaries to persons who were on the payroll without proper authority.

The act granting such powers to all county school boards in the state was drafted, passed and then vetoed by the Governor.

Thus, apparently, only counties such as Fulton, whose school boards were created by virtue of special legislation, are not faced with one of two alternatives: Fire all clerical help, or continue to pay salaries not authorized by Georgia laws.

Three Killed In Explosion Of Train Boiler

Virginia Tragedy Brings Investigation of Sabotage Reports.

STEWARTSVILLE, Va., April 1. (UP)—Federal, state and railroad officials tonight began an investigation into reports of sabotage in connection with a freight train explosion near here today, which took the lives of three members of the train crew.

Inspectors of the Interstate Commerce Commission, announcing the investigation, said sabotage had been reported, although officials of the Virginian Railway said there "was no immediate indication of sabotage."

Cause of the explosion, meanwhile, was unknown. The engine boiler blew up shortly after the train of 150 coal cars left Roanoke, Va., and as it was pulling up a slight grade. Train officials said the explosion might have been caused by the combination of low water in the boiler and the fact the train was pulling heavily up the slope.

The victims were Engineer John Dudding, Fireman M. C. Brown and Brakeman R. H. Harrison, all of whom were riding in the engine cab. Two other train crew members, riding in the rear car, were not hurt.

TOKYO, April 1.—(AP)—Five northern fishing sites formerly used by the Japanese Nichiro Marine Industry Company were reported here today to have gone to Soviet fishermen at an auction at Vladivostok yesterday.

MEXICAN LEADERS HAIL REARMAMENT EFFORT.

MEXICO CITY, April 1.—(AP)—Naval, military and foreign office sources combined today in official expressions of approval over the conclusion of a defense pact between Mexico and the United States permitting reciprocal use of their air fields and bases.

National Park Meeting Won't Be Held in State

Administration Reported Unable To Be Host to Event.

The first meeting of the National Conference on State Parks ever to be held in Georgia—won't be held in Georgia.

The 200 members of this organization which had planned to meet at Pine Mountain State Park during April, in recognition of the great strides made by Georgia in park development during the past few years, will meet at Pere Marquette State Park in Illinois instead as guests of the State Park Division of that state.

H. S. Wagner, president of the National Conference, in a letter to The Constitution, reported that his body had planned to hold its annual meeting in Georgia at the invitation of Charles N. Elliott, former conservation commissioner, and E. L. Bothwell, former director of state parks.

Checking up after the two had been dismissed by the new administration to find if the status of the invitation had changed, Mr. Wagner said he received a letter from the new commissioner, R. F. Burch, stating that the state could not assume the responsibility of being host to the group.

He suggested, according to Mr. Wagner, that the group come to a meeting sponsored by the Macon Chamber of Commerce. This was declined.

8 States With Poll Tax Favor Levy; Rest of U. S. Against It

Southern States Without Law Are Among Those in Opposition; Georgia Is Included Among Minority Group.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
Copyright, 1941.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 1.—One of the political problems being widely discussed throughout the south is the question of abolishing poll taxes which are still a requirement for voting in eight southern states.

Campaigns headed by civic and other groups have been started in nearly all of the eight states to repeal the poll taxes. With public discussions of the issue just beginning to take shape, the American Institute of Public Opinion has conducted a survey to measure first public reaction to the campaign.

Today's survey results reveal three facts about public opinion on the poll tax question.

1. Throughout the nation as a whole, a large majority of voters are in favor of abolishing all existing poll taxes.

2. In the 13 southern states public opinion is of mixed complexion on the issue.

However, in the eight states which still have poll taxes—Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia—majority sentiment is still in favor of retaining the tax.

In those eight states the issue was posed as follows:
"Should the poll tax be abolished as a requirement for voting in this state?"

The attitude of persons who have paid their poll taxes and are eligible to vote is as follows for the eight poll tax states combined:

(Vote of Persons Who Have Paid Their Poll Tax)
FOR ABOLISHING POLL TAX 34%
FOR RETAINING POLL TAX 59%
NO OPINION 7%

The survey also included, however, persons of voting age who, through failure to pay the poll tax, are not eligible to vote. When they are added to the others who have paid their taxes, the combined sentiment is:

(Persons Who Have Paid Poll Tax Combined With Those Who Have Not)
FOR ABOLISHING POLL TAX 35%
FOR RETAINING POLL TAX 53%
NO OPINION 12%

Here are the findings of the survey on this score:
"Some southern states require every voter to pay a poll tax amounting to $1 a year or more before they can vote. Do you think these poll taxes should be abolished?"

VOTE IN FIVE SOUTHERN STATES WITH NO POLL TAX
FOR ABOLISHING POLL TAX 51%
FOR RETAINING POLL TAX 36%
NO OPINION 13%

TOTAL UNITED STATES VOTE
FOR ABOLISHING POLL TAX 63%
FOR RETAINING POLL TAX 25%
NO OPINION 12%

Vital Defense Ore Deposits Found in State

Vermiculite Once Discarded as Useless by Georgia Miners.

Sizable deposits of a mineral important to national defense are being mapped in Rabun and other north Georgia counties, it was disclosed here yesterday at the state office of WPA.

The brownish-yellow mineral—which early miners in the Georgia hills either ignored or threw away as a useless byproduct—is vermiculite, a source of insulation material.

The mineral is growing increasingly important because industry is beginning to beg for it. In this connection, it was reported that one Georgia industry alone is ready to use 1,000 tons annually and will expand its plant for additional available material.

Vermiculite is used in air conditioning, sound proofing and insulation. Manufactured into boards, it is used in refrigerators, ovens, fireless cookers and incubators. The Office of Production Management recently designated it as a strategic mineral.

Two other minerals, manganese and chromite, are listed by the OPM as strategic, that is, essential that a domestic supply be developed to replace ores being imported from nations now at war or threatened to become involved in war.

R. C. Beckstrom, state supervisor of the WPA mineral resources survey, yesterday left Atlanta for Canton to begin a survey in Cherokee county, the 15th Georgia county in which work of exploration and investigation is under way.

Other mineral deposits being studied in this state include manganese ore, chromite, kyanite, mica, asbestos, feldspar, gold and graphite, many of which are important to national defense.

The WPA crews are working under sponsorship of the state department of mines, mining and geology.

Many years ago when asbestos began to be mined commercially it was discovered that the deposits in the Georgia hills were usually associated with more or less oval rock masses, which were pushed into the native rock as a red-hot liquid.

Corundum Deposits.

Some of the baked material surrounding these intrusions was found to contain corundum, one of the hardest of all metals and useful as an abrasive. But the corundum crystals were usually embedded in a yellowish material that stuck to them and was hard to remove.

Experiments showed that this coating expanded when heat was applied. In fact, it became light enough to go up the chimney in feather-like flakes, and the mine owners threw crystals and all into a furnace, glad to be rid of everything but the corundum.

That was before it was discovered that the discarded material was vermiculite, and that its quality of expanded and becoming extremely light when exposed to heat made it far more valuable than the corundum.

Trooper Safe After 'Chute Snags on Plane

pull him free of the plane. He made this decision while the plane was circling over the Alabama side of the river, and landed in a plowed field. The abruptness with which he parted company with the tail of the plane broke his right collarbone, and a small rip made at the same time in the 'chute's canopy brought him to earth somewhat faster than normal and his hip was dislocated in the impact.

Officers who rushed to the scene found him cheerfully undisturbed by his experience. One of the officers, First Lieutenant Broadus B. Taylor, of the 16th Observation Squadron, took off from near-by Lawson Field in a Courier plane as soon as he saw Findlay's predicament. With "rare skill and considerable risk" he landed the plane in a small pasture adjacent to the field in which the parachutist had landed and ran to his side. Four officers of the parachute battalion ferried the Chattahoochee to reach the trooper.

Findlay was taken to Fort Benning hospital, where the extent of his injuries was determined so far as possible without extended observation.

Major William M. Mile, commanding officer of the 501st Battalion, later expressed the opinion that Findlay's mishap was due to defective lacing of the pack containing the parachute. He explained that the pack should open automatically when the jump of the parachutist takes it to the end of the static line attached to it and the plane. This line, he said, is long enough to assure clearance of the plane if the parachute is properly packed. As part of his training, each parachutist is impressed with the fact that proper packing, which he is taught, is his individual responsibility. Mile described Findlay as an excellent parachutist who for the one flight at least had not been properly "mindful of this responsibility."

Valdosta Sees 'Boom-Time' in Camp Proposal

Army Bombardier Base Is Expected To Be Authorized Soon.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. VALDOSTA, Ga., April 1.—Valdosta is bracing itself for the impact of sudden "boom-time" activity which normally goes with establishment of military camps and bases.

In this case, the city is preparing for the expected establishment of a United States Army bombardier base on State Highway 125, nine miles northeast of the city.

Officially, the camp has not been authorized, but it is semi-officially reported the War Department has approved a recommendation by General Walter R. Weaver by requesting transfer of title to the property from the Department of Agriculture to the War Department.

Road Improvement. Meanwhile, Lowndes county has undertaken improvement of roads in the vicinity, and has contracted with the State Highway Department to lay the base Highway 125, preparatory to paving. This work is under way.

A Jacksonville (Fla.) company has a crew of nearly 100 men engaged in making a topographical survey of the property. The Lakeland Flatwoods Project of the Soil Conservation Service consists of approximately 10,000 acres in Lowndes and Lanier counties. The property to be used for the bombardier camp consists of only a part of the Flatwoods project.

Area To Be Used. That portion of the land to be used for landing fields is perfectly level and affords space for runways of more than 6,000 feet if desired.

It is estimated the first cost of construction on the camp would be $2,000,000, with an added $3,500,000 for housing. It is estimated that the pay roll of the camp, when in operation with its 4,000 students and officers, will average $200,000 a month, in addition to expenditures for food and supplies.

Big Timber Tract Sold for $19,000

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. DUBLIN, Ga., April 1.—The lumber firm of C. T. Alexander & Sons today was high bidder with $19,000 for a 637-acre tract of land including an estimated 1,500,000 feet of virgin pine timber, four miles north of here. The tract was sold at public outcry by the administrator of the estate of the late J. L. A. Perry.

Perry, a bachelor farmer, died in January without leaving a will. His nearest of kin are first cousins. Lester F. Watson, attorney for the administrator, J. J. Perry, a second cousin, confirmed the sale to the Alexander firm, operator of one of the largest lumber mills here.

Lumber men estimated the timber would bring almost as much as the sale price for the entire tract.

$15,000 Blaze Damages Mill in Barnesville

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. BARNESVILLE, Ga., April 1.—A building on Market street, owned by Mrs. R. A. Stafford and occupied by the Georgia Knitting Mills, was damaged by fire yesterday. The damage, estimated at about $15,000, was covered by insurance. Mrs. Stafford said. The mill machinery was damaged, and a large amount of unfinished goods and materials were destroyed. J. A. Cason, mayor of Barnesville and owner of the mill, said that his greatest loss would be in not being able to fill orders. The building will be repaired immediately Mrs. Stafford said.

Zoo Who's Who:

Constitution Staff Photo—Carolyn McKenzie. It is almost springtime in the zoo. Atlanta's home for its wild animals is in Grant park, and to it go thousands each year to see its inhabitants. These daily stories about "Who's Who in the Zoo" are to help you get better acquainted with Atlanta's charges from the jungle. Today we introduce:

GREATEST OF EXISTING BIRDS, THE OSTRICH.

The giant of the bird families is the ostrich. Some full grown males of the species frequently tower eight feet and weigh 250 to 300 pounds. They cannot fly, but are swift of foot and exceedingly wary and able to defend themselves vigorously with beak and foot. They are keen of sight and, except the cassowary, are inhabitants of open country.

They are distinguished from all other birds by having only two toes on each foot, and the true ostriches are now confined to Africa and the adjacent portions of southwest Asia where several species occur. A specimen of the great Somaliland ostrich was presented to President Roosevelt by Emperor Menelik, of Abyssinia, and is a magnificent example of this fine bird. The South African ostrich is the species most commonly kept on ostrich farms in the southwest where the bird is reared for its feathers. The adult male is a splendid bird in his black and white plumage but the females and the young males are of a grayish-brown coloration.

The brain of the ostrich is very small in proportion to the size of that organ in other birds. The parakeet's brain, as compared with the whole body, is as 1 to 45; the eagle's is as 1 to 160, and the ostrich's is as 1 to 1,200. Because of the incapacity of this vital organ, the old bird hides his head in the sand and thinks his entire body is safe.

Ostrich farming has become quite an industry in the Pacific states. The first ostriches imported to California came from Cape Town, via Buenos Aires and New York. Since then they have been farmed successfully at Anaheim and Pasadena, Cal., up to the present time. Ostriches are found exclusively in Africa, and are sold at prices varying according to their breeding capabilities, and the quality of their feathers. Ostrich eggs require six weeks for hatching.

Dean's List Issued At Milledgeville

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 1. The dean's list for the Georgia State College for Women for the winter quarter has been announced by the registrar. There is a decrease of approximately 10 students from the fall quarter list. A scholastic average of 88 is required to make the list. Those students are:

Two Men Are Wounded In Carroll County Duel

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. CARROLLTON, Ga., April 1.—Carroll county Sheriff Bunt B. Kilgore today was investigating what was termed a "shotgun duel" which resulted in critical wounds for one man and minor injuries to another in the Lowell section, 12 miles from here.

Dewey Brown, about 40, was reported in a serious condition with more than 100 buckshot wounds about the face, head, chest and arms. A man named Renter Shoemaker, 23, was resting comfortably after emergency treatment for a number of buckshot wounds about the body. The sheriff said Shoemaker told him he was fired upon as he sat at the wheel of his automobile.

Farmers Prepare for Increased Feed for Livestock.

ATHENS, Ga., April 1.—Some 384 new trench silos were dug and filled last season by Georgia farmers as a means of increasing feed for livestock and providing more high-quality legume hays for dairy cows, according to Frank W. Fitch, dairyman for the Agricultural Extension Service.

Fitch asserts that work on home dairying has improved the quality of dairy products sold and the price received, and has thus resulted in the placing of several thousand milk cows on farms that previously had none.

More than $1,500,000 worth of milk, cream, and butter was handled by dairy co-operative marketing organizations, at a saving of some $20,000 to Georgia farmers, he said.

Twelve feeding schools, conducted by livestock specialists and agricultural engineers, were held in seven counties last year in co-operation with project managers of REA co-operatives. The use of electricity on the farm for feed grinding to provide better feeding of farm livestock and poultry was demonstrated and recommended rations were prepared in the schools.

The extension dairyman said that several state records were broken by dairy cows of different ages in 1940. Progress in type was shown by winnings of many awards in the larger dairy shows in the country, including the grand champion Jersey cow of the United States, bred in Georgia by a dirt farmer with a small general farm. This cow produced 12,703 pounds (about 1,260 gallons) of milk and 710 pounds of butterfat.

Ministers Stress Need of Preachers

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. CARROLLTON, Ga., April 1.—The world needs preachers as never before, and the church's treatment of evangelism "must be so presented as to demand a decision," Dr. W. W. Hamilton, of New Orleans, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, told a northwest Georgia conference of pastors and lay leaders here yesterday.

"If a man is saved at 60," said Dr. Hamilton, in his treatment of "Evangelism," "it means he has been under the wrong influence for at least 50 years."

"Never have young persons entering the Baptist evangelistic field had such an opportunity to save sinking souls who need to be thrown life lines," he added, avowing "I wish that I had 50 years more to live."

Dr. James W. Merritt, executive secretary of the Georgia Baptist Convention, announced that the circulation of the Christian Index has increased to a total of 16,004.

Others addressing the one-day conference at Tabernacle Baptist church included Warren P. Sewell, Atlanta lay leader, and Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, of Atlanta's Grant Park Baptist, and also Georgia Baptist Convention president.

Certified Flock Production in State Increased

Federal Standards Adopted on Big Scale by Growers.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ATHENS, Ga., April 1.—Hatching eggs are being sold by about 140 "U. S. Certified" chicken flocks of superior breeding in Georgia, compared with only 10 flocks with such rating in 1939. Arthur Gannon, poultryman for the Agricultural Extension Service, points out that, while there was a small decrease in the number of hens on Georgia farms last year, the number of standard-bred flocks showed a decided increase. He says there was definite improvement in the quality, as well as number, of breeding flocks supplying eggs to state hatcheries.

In the demonstration flock record-keeping project, the average production for the 1939-40 fiscal year was slightly over 145 eggs per hen, and the gross income per hen was nearly $3.50, Gannon declared.

Forty-one hatcheries, with a total capacity of 2,423,866 eggs, met the National Poultry Improvement Plan requirements for the 1940-41 hatching season, and 671 flocks were qualified as "Georgia U. S. Approved Pullover-Tested" or higher rating. Seven Record of Performance breeders completed their records for the 1939-40 season and eight

Music Festival In Milledgeville Opens Monday

About 3,000 Pupils Expected To Participate in Event.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 1.—Preparations for 3,000 state music festival participants expected here next Monday and Tuesday were moving ahead under full steam today.

Dr. Max Noah, festival chairman for the Georgia Music Education, said about 2,000 would participate in Monday's opening events and 2,000—some of them Monday duplications—would be here for the second day's program. The state music festival is an annual event which climaxes the work of the music teachers in all the state's public schools. Participants are those ranked tops in sub-district and district festivals. Housing of more than 500 students Sunday and Monday nights will be in charge of Mrs. E. R. Hines. Many will be cared for at G. S. C. W. and others will go to private homes and local hotels. More than 50 Georgia schools will send participants. Entries range from vocal and instrumental soloists to large bands and orchestras with all the trappings. Biggest event on the program will be the marching band contest on the G. M. C. football field Monday night.

War on 'Home Brew' Is Waged in Colquitt

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MOULTRIE, Ga., April 1.—A widespread campaign to check the manufacture and sale of home brew in Colquitt county has been launched here by sheriff's officers. Manufacture of home brew by bootleggers has "materially increased since a drive was conducted last fall against beer operators," according to attaches of the sheriff's office. Brew is manufactured and sold under cover at 10 cents a bottle, it is stated.

Discusses Gossips, Males and Females, In Two Stories.

Two published "articles" on gossip within the last week have interested me.

One was in the New Yorker. I haven't it at hand and can't name the author. A fanciful story about a woman who received a letter from a 13-year-old girl in England—a distant relative. The other was Westbrook Pegler's column Monday about his mythical American, George Spelvin.

The American woman was incensed because English censors had clipped three lines from the little girl's letter. She wondered what they had tried to tell. She had a vivid imagination. She went to parties and related some of her imaginings—about the inside information she had received from England—from a mysterious source. Within a week or two she was stating positively—and probably believing herself—that her inside tip was that all the north of England was a total wreck and all the inhabitants starving. All because of a few lines censored out of a little girl's letter.

Mr. Pegler took the hide off men gossips. Mr. Spelvin, he wrote, "wears his chin on a loose hinge."

Mr. Spelvin went to a cocktail party and absorbed a few. He met a stranger who mentioned a trial in the federal court.

"That case is all fixed," Mr. Spelvin said. "Plenty of money and a crooked lawyer. I know all about that."

Few days later Mr. Spelvin received an invitation to call on the federal judge. The stranger at the cocktail party turned out to be an assistant district attorney. A third party was a sour little guy who turned out to be the lawyer for the defense.

Both lawyers and the judge desired to know what caused Mr. Spelvin to broadcast that the "case was fixed." It reflected on all of them. They desired facts—and plenty of them.

All Mr. Spelvin could say was that "it was all over town."

They didn't throw him into the bastille—though they could have. They told him to go home and try to quit talking about things without having at least one fact.

of which helps. It might be the month in which "death takes a holiday" except for a few odd jobs. Somebody will, of course, start wondering what his wife told him to bring home for dinner and step in front of a truck. And the usual number of house-cleaning housewives will fall off stepladders. You must count on those things.

So, if you are protected by the law of averages, you needn't worry excessively. Not until July. That's the time to watch your step. It's the peak month. Especially just before, during and after the Glorious Fourth.

Fate—or What?

E. W. Sisk, 61, was killed Saturday night—struck by an automobile. He was crossing a street—and the driver was absolved from blame.

Fate? Predestination? Who can say?

Because Mr. Sisk had been working with railroads since he was 16—which means 45 years. Not in office buildings but in operating jobs. Which may be dangerous. No telling when a switch engine will creep up on you.

But, after 45 years of dodging railroad engines and cars he was killed by an automobile.

"Kismet?" An oriental word for "what's coming to you?"

Just after the first World War a French ace flyer, holder of innumerable medals, landed in New York for a lecture tour. He had brought down numerous planes and emerged without a scratch.

Crossing the street in front of Grand Central station he was hit by a taxicab. Which was his end.

You'd have to go back to old Khayyam to do justice to this subject. And what would be the use?

All of us have an enormous respect for locks and keys. With the door locked and the key in the pocket you're all fixed.

Yet, I wonder. Several evenings ago I parked a car uptown, locked it carefully—and when I wanted it I couldn't find the keys.

Telephone call brought a key expert—in pajamas, slippers and overcoat. And a little handful of tools. Fifteen minutes after he arrived he delivered two keys, one for the car door, the other for the ignition. They worked.

If one expert can do that for a legitimate car owner, why can't a crooked key expert and his pals steal all the cars in 15 blocks?

I am not familiar with the city of Arlington, Ga., nor its environs, but I can sympathize with Editor Ham, of the Calhoun County Courier, who appeals to the supreme powers, as follows:

"Messrs. City Officials, would it be possible for us to obtain a foot-log across the street in front of this office? And should it happen, please put banisters on both sides. There might come times when it would be difficult for me to walk a 12-inch board."

18,000 Names Congress Air Are Added to Crash Probers Pension Lists Launch Inquiry

Old Age Benefit Rolls Are Swelled to 70,000.

Approximately 18,000 Georgians more than 65 years of age were added to the pension rolls of the state Department of Public Welfare yesterday as Director B. S. Miller announced a policy of "spreading pension funds thin over a wider area."

The additions, which were promised by Governor Talmadge a few days after his inauguration, swell the total to more than 70,000 names. State funds to pay the benefits during the first quarter, which ended Monday, were increased from $514,164 to $624,000. This figure was matched by federal social security monies.

To finance the larger old age pension roll, Governor Talmadge has slashed office expenses in the Department of Welfare. Further savings are anticipated when the second quarter budget, now being drafted, is expected to show sizeable reductions in office personnel.

State funds to pay the benefits during the first quarter, which ended Monday, were increased from $514,164 to $624,000. This figure was matched by federal social security monies.

Reds Directed From Moscow, Hearing Shows

Witness in Harry Bridges Case Says U.S. Groups Had To Obey.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—(P)—Testimony that American Communists were completely under the thumb of the Internationale occupied almost the entire attention of the government today in its deportation hearing against Harry Bridges, west coast maritime labor leader.

Benjamin Gitlow, expelled former general secretary of the party in the United States, testified in the second day of the hearing that the Internationale ordered:

1. Creation of a Negro republic from the southern states when the American revolution comes;
2. Financing of Nicaraguan Rebels against American Marines;
3. Communist control of labor unions and separation from the AFL which "culminated in success when the Congress for Industrial Organization was formed."

The Communist party of the United States, Gitlow testified, had no choice but to obey these orders reached in sessions of the Internationale in Moscow.

Senate Votes To Purchase Argentine Beef

Supplemental Defense Measure Approved Unanimously.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(P)—The senate approved unanimously today a $4,389,000,000 supplemental defense appropriations bill after amending it to provide for Army and Navy purchases of Argentine canned beef and other foreign products under restricted circumstances.

Such purchases would be allowed only if domestic articles of comparable quality could not be purchased in sufficient quantities and at reasonable prices.

The measure now goes to a joint senate-house committee to iron out differences between senate and house versions. These differences included the senate's modification of a house provision flatly prohibiting foreign purchases by the Army and Navy and its addition to the bill of $315,474,000 in cash appropriations.

Of the increased appropriations placed in the bill by the senate, $312,871,000 would go toward enlargement of the airplane pilot training program.

The foreign purchase provision was offered by Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado.

Adams proposed this as a substitute to a sweeping provision approved yesterday by the senate in a pending $4,389,000,000 defense appropriation bill, banning the use of funds in the measure to purchase foreign articles.

Administration leaders at first opposed Adams' proposal, then agreed to it.

eventually be made of the vessels, said at his press conference that there was no news on the situation but Secretary Hull at his made it evident that the Axis protests would in no way influence the action of the government.

At the same time Hull disclosed that other American governments were being consulted on a common policy of action on Axis ships. Fires then burning in such ships in some Latin-American ports were cited by Hull as evidence of the sabotage on which the United States based its "protective" action in taking over a total of 69 German, Italian and Danish vessels.

In Mobile, Ala., United States District Attorney Francis H. Inge said he is proceeding immediately with prosecution of 30 officers and men taken from the Italian steamer Ida Z. O. here Sunday by the Coast Guard.

Inge said proceedings would be filed in federal court tomorrow charging the men with sabotage. Meanwhile, Port Captain Marius Peterson announced that a survey of the Ida Z. O. had revealed the Italian crew members had damaged the ship $200,000 during the four-day period prior to its seizure.

At Charleston, S. C., officers and crew from the Italian freighters Clara and Villaperosa had been turned over to immigration authorities at Savannah, Ga.

military patrols which yesterday turned away visitors.

All operations of the line were reported suspended indefinitely by Peruvian government order.

Three Italian tankers and a German cargo-passenger ship were burned in Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, and the government took over three undamaged Italian vessels and one small German passenger ship and arrested 335 Axis sailors. Two German ships were burned at Callao, Peru, after a Peruvian cruiser prevented their escape; and another German vessel was scuttled in Paita, Peru.

Flames burst from the German steamship Cerigo in the Guayas river at Guayaquil, Ecuador, yesterday. A swastika flag hung from the stern of the 1,120-ton vessel as a fire-fighting boat approached, but no sign of activity could be observed aboard.

The Cerigo, a Hamburg American line ship which traded between South America and Germany before the war, was involved in an incident at Guayaquil last May 12 after the German invasion of Holland.

Crew members awoke to find a large Netherlands flag painted on her prow and these words: "Long live the Netherlands."

The Dutch ship Manto had sailed at dawn and her crew was suspected.

Two others which fled from Callao Monday night were located 110 miles at sea by Peruvian navy planes. Peruvian warships were reported speeding to the scene.

Two Axis vessels were burned by their crews Monday in Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, shortly after that country took the ships into custody. The Costa Rican government last night considered seizing German funds on deposit at San Jose to compensate for the fires. The crews were charged with arson.

Cuba took over an Italian ship in Havana harbor Monday night, and yesterday the Mexican navy took charge of a German and an Italian ship in Vera Cruz and prepared to take nine Italians and another German vessel in Tampico.

An informant in the Mexican navy ministry said it was an act of solidarity with the United States, which over the weekend took charge of 69 German, Italian and Danish vessels.

Candler Memorial Urged by LeCraw

Mayor LeCraw yesterday asked members of the family of the late Asa G. Candler, Sr. to provide funds for erection of a monument to one of the city's greatest builders on Candler square at Spring street and Carnegie way.

In a letter to C. Howard Candler, son of the soft drink magnate, LeCraw said the city has considered for the past several years a proposed canalization of traffic, and pointed out that a monument to the memory of Mr. Candler would be a fitting tribute to one of the city's most prominent citizens and would be a distinct service to the municipality.

MONTICELLO, Ga., April 1.—Sheriff Frank R. Ezell today announced seizure and destruction of a 150-gallon-per-day illicit liquor still during a weekend raid six miles south of here. Two-Word Speech

Fools Congressmen

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(P)—Representative Rich, Republican, Pennsylvania, who makes a one-minute speech to the house almost every day it is in session, cut it down to just two words today.

Unanimous consent was granted for Rich to talk for 60 seconds. He took the floor, Rich said, and sat down amid applause.

U. S. Embassy Scene of Rome Demonstration

Troops Preserve Order; Matsuoka Sees King, II Duce and Ciano.

ROME, April 1.—(P)—Two hundred Italian schoolboys demonstrated tonight in front of the United States embassy, guarded by steel-helmeted Italian troops, a few hours after Premier Mussolini and Japanese Foreign Minister Matsuoka greeted a wildly cheering crowd of 150,000 at the Piazza Venezia.

Police chased the youths away from the embassy, on the Via Veneto, and the troops were not called into action.

Observers called the demonstration one of friendship for Matsuoka, who was the guest of Italian Foreign Minister Ciano at a state dinner in the Excelsior hotel across the street.

Matsuoka's appearance with II Duce concluded a round of talks with Italy's leaders.

He spent half an hour with King Vittorio Emanuele, 45 minutes with Ciano, and an hour and a quarter with Mussolini.

Informed observers said they believed the talks were devoted largely to the growing interest of the United States in the war, and what to do about it.

One Rome newspaper saw Germany, Japan and Italy being drawn together for defense as a result of United States moves.

The guard at the United States embassy, although a considerable number of troops, was smaller than one thrown about the Yugoslav legation.

The soldiers took up their positions shortly before scores of schoolboys paraded Rome's streets waving flags of the three Axis partners—Japan, Germany and Italy.

While Matsuoka talked with Italian leaders, the Rome newspaper L'Avvenire declared United States seizure of German, Italian and Danish ships and the Australian cruise of United States battleships were "two clearly hostile manifestations drawing Germany, Japan and Italy together in ever closer defensive necessity."

Carter - Harrison Wedding Date Chosen For Sentiment

WHEN EMMELYN CARTER and Julian Harrison Jr. planned their marriage they chose April 27 as the date for the nuptials, because to Emmelyn it is a day of deep sentiment. You see, it was on April 27, 1920, that her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ben T. Carter, were married in Bolton at the home of Mrs. M. B. Moore.

But when the young couple consulted the calendar they found to their disappointment that April 27 this year falls on a Sunday! So Emmelyn and Julian have set Saturday, April 26, as the date for their marriage, and today Sally is privileged to reveal plans for the wedding, which will be one of the highlights of the spring social season.

Emmelyn is the first of the past season's debutantes to marry, and parties given in her honor as a deb were hardly over before dates were being sought to honor her as a bride-elect. Her marriage will be preceded by a series of social affairs, with a number already having taken place.

The ceremony is set for high noon April 26 at St. Mark Methodist church, with the pastor, Dr. Lester Rumble, officiating in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends. Mrs. Paul E. Bryan, a close friend of the Carters, will present the wedding music.

Dr. Carter will give his daughter in marriage and James Sibley will be the best man. Julia Carter will be maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids will be a group of belles who, with Emmelyn, were members of the 1940-41 Debutante Club. They include Evelyn Harrison, sister of Julian; Elsa McCall; Mary Lih Beers; Gladys Randall; Martha Merritt; Helen McDuffie; Margaret Winship; and sub-deb Dolly Hewlett. The flower girl will be Mary Helen Harrison, young sister of the groom-elect.

The groomsmen will be Forrest Adair III, William Manry III, Clem Powers Jr., Rawson Haverly, Steve Maxwell, Morton Rolleson Jr., Haines Hargrett, William Cram Jr. and Robert Hector. The ushers will be Frank Boykin, of Wilmington; Dr. Carter Smith, N. D. Eubank, Lindsay Hopkins, of Miami Beach, Fla.; Nisbet Tilly, T. Walter Moore, Marcus Emmert and Frank Carter.

After the ceremony the bridal party and the two families will assemble at the Piedmont Driving Club, where Dr. and Mrs. Carter will be hosts at a small reception for their daughter and Julian. Mary Jo Brownlee, also a deb of last season, and Jane Brightwell, of Athens, will keep the bride's book.

Today Emmelyn will be honored at a shower and a luncheon to be given by Martha Merritt at the Piedmont Driving Club, and on Friday another luncheon will be given in her honor at the home of Mrs. Henry Smith on Woodward way. Hostesses will be members of Mrs. Carter's church committee at St. Mark and include, in addition to Mrs. Smith, Mesdames Nisbet Tilly, Ruth Middlebrooks, Otis Barge and Fred Houser.

PAUL AND MILDRED SEYDEL gave one of the intimate little dinners for which they are famous on Monday evening, their inspiration being Donald Grosset, of New York. Mr. Grosset, who is a member of the publishing firm of Grosset & Dunlap, was en route to Florida and could only be persuaded to stay overnight.

Mildred chose yellow pansies and white daisies to fill the attractive modernistic white glass containers with which she centered her table, the color motif blending to perfection with the blond mahogany furnishings of her dining room.

Covers were placed for Mr. Grosset, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hitz, Ed Patillo, of Baltimore, and the hosts.

ONCE AGAIN Georgia has scored a literary triumph. This time it is "The General's Boss," a charming story of life in an old southern manor house by Pearl S. Truman, who makes her home in Columbus. Published by the House of Field, New York City, the book is just off the press. It deals with the exciting and adventurous vacation of a retired Army general and his boss.

The author was reared in the famous Blue Grass region of Kentucky, and since 1926 she has been residing in Columbus, where she is president of Truman & Smith Institute. She is the mother of Valerie Evelyn Truman, who recently received her master's degree in literature from Oglethorpe University.

Besides novels, Mrs. Truman has written numerous editorials which have been translated into six foreign languages. She is a member of the Eugene Field Literary Society and she is included in "American Women" and the "International Blue Book."

New Youthfulness for Your Hands

Lotion Is Softening, Refining

By Winifred Ware.

One sure way to win friends and influence people, not using the much publicized formulae, is to have lovely hands. Your hands are constantly being noticed, as they are one of a person's most expressive features. If you do not give your hands proper care, they will reveal ugly signs of carelessness. And, no matter what the circumstance may be, one should always have a fresh, neat . . . a completely well-groomed appearance. Your hands are the first step, and one of the most vital steps, toward acquiring the ever-important well-cared-for look. Fashion designers have decreed a "call to the colors"—bright, vivid, gay colors that demand the appearance to be dashing and glorious. So with the striking colors and styles of the new season, we must strive to keep our hands just as striking in that they must be flower-soft, fine in texture, but alive in tone.

We have found an excellent hand lotion of a famous long-standing make that not only is a blessing to rough, dry hands, but a bargain, for you get a most generous amount that will last for several months. It is a thin, milky hand preparation that refreshes and soothes the roughened, sensitive skin, and one of its most important features is that while it smoothes and softens your skin, it refines the texture. It is a non-greasy lotion, yet it does not dry out the natural moisture. With only one application you'll notice a new, pearly freshness, new youthfulness and a different texture to your hands. The delicacy of your skin requires a gentle, mild lotion, but a lotion, too, that has refining qualities to help retard a coarse, harsh skin texture. You will love this beauty aid as a softening and refining agent and you'll find soon a richer, more alive tone to your skin.

It is a pleasant experience to find a preparation that has the effectiveness that this one has, and you will be pleased to find when you see how really long-lasting it is. You will thrill at the new loveliness of your hands, and, remember, men notice beautiful soft hands. Call Winifred Ware today at The Constitution for information, or write to the address of this paper, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

One Reliable Doctor Better Than Several

By Dr. William Brady.

I am 41. Three years ago I discovered a lump in the right breast. I went immediately to a physician. The examination included fluoroscope, blood count and urinalysis. The doctor said there was no indication of malignancy, but that I should have an examination at least every six months, to be on the safe side.

Six months later I was examined by another doctor. Again the doctor told me not to be alarmed, but the lump was evidently more malignant, but to have an examination twice a year. In reply to my inquiry the doctor said the lump could be removed by operation, of course, but unless it bothered me too much I should try to forget it except for the semi-annual examination.

Next time I consulted a third physician, who said the lump was not malignant, but suggested that have it removed rather than dwell on the possibility of cancer all the time. He also said a doctor can't tell just when such a lump may become malignant. Still I do not like the idea of being operated on and finding that the lump was harmless.

Isn't there any way or test to determine whether such a lump is malignant, without cutting into it? What would you advise me to do? All the doctors asked whether I had any pain in my breast. Sometimes it has seemed as though I felt a little pain there, but again I don't know. The lump is freely movable. I thought you might recommend some good clinic or specialist anywhere.

MISS N. W. The wisest plan, I think, would be to stick to any of the three physicians consulted and not run from one to another. A doctor who has examined you once is better qualified to determine whether any suspicious change has occurred than would a doctor who has never examined you before.

If all breasts with lumps in 'em were operated on the surgeons would be kept pretty busy. At the same time, to the best of my knowledge, all three doctors have given the patient good advice. She has taken the right course for any woman, of any age, who discovers a lump in the breast.

Your hands are the first step, and one of the most vital steps, toward acquiring the ever-important well-cared-for look. They must be soft, alluring, just as striking as the spring styles. Merle Oberon, Warner Bros. star of "Affectionately Yours," uses a hand lotion constantly to keep them fresh and youthful looking.

'Put Your Bucket MY DAY: Down Where You Are'

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Monday.—One of the interesting things we saw near Tuskegee was a real rural theater. The actors had built the stage and arranged the room for the audience. There were rough benches, an open fire, and some very interesting masks for decoration on the walls. It was called "The Bucket Theater," and on the sign outside was a quotation from Booker T. Washington which reads: "Put your bucket down where you are." This little rural theater certainly is putting down its bucket in that country.

Saturday morning the Tuskegee Institute trustees met again all morning, and in the afternoon we visited the hospital, listened to the health problems which Tuskegee is trying to ameliorate. I had the pleasure of going through the new unit for the treatment of infantile paralysis which has been installed here by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. I am taking back a book full of pictures so that the President, who is much interested in the installment of this unit, will have an opportunity to see what it looks like.

Dr. Chenault is almost the only Negro doctor in the country, I think, who has had full training as an orthopaedic surgeon and has specialized in infantile paralysis. He gives one a feeling of great confidence, and the children's faces lit up when we went into the wards. A number of cases are crippled children, suffering from horrible burns that have left them with deformities which only surgery and great care can cure. These youngsters play around open hearths where the fire burns to heat the cabin and cook the food. There are no guard rails, such as we think so essential for our ornamental fires.

Finally we went out to the aviation field, where a Civil Aeronautics unit for the teaching of colored pilots is in full swing. They have advanced training here, and some of the students went up and did acrobatic flying for us. These boys are good pilots. I had the fun of going up in one of the tiny training planes with the head instructor and seeing this interesting countryside from the air.

We got up early Sunday morning and drove to Mobile for my lecture there, then flew during the night to Greensboro, N. C., and now we are leaving to join the President at Fort Bragg.

Men Admire Neatness, Good Grooming in Women

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Maybe you think this is a decision a man should make for himself. However, a woman's advice might be helpful and I appeal to you for it. I am in love and not at all blind to my girl's faults. I see her good points as well as her bad ones. She tries to save my money when we are out together, never lets me spend foolishly as I would do sometimes if it weren't for her warnings. She is domestic-minded and as far as I've been able to taste her cooking she's a good cook. She's not exactly pretty but definitely is not hard to look at. Now here's the thing that holds me back. She's untidy. Her hair is usually mussed up and she doesn't wear her clothes well. Something is always wrong with her appearance. Either her slip shows or a button or hook is off somewhere and she's pinned up. Having heard that these little matters make a difference as time goes by I'm hesitating about marrying her.

Answer: This being a day of frank and free conversation between a man and a woman, there's no earthly harm in your talking this over with your girl. Even if you hurt her feelings she'll forgive you. Just come right out and tell her that every man loves to see the girl well groomed and you are no exception.

Today's Charm Tip

To overcome self-consciousness and add a heap of charm to your reputation, try to see that other people are happy; that others are having a good time.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Mother: "Check up on what is available in the supply cupboard and then use your ingenuity to find a recipe for some dessert that will use only what we have."

Mother: "I'd like to make an apple pie but we haven't any apples or shortening." Daughter: "If we had some gelatin I could make that good gelatin dessert."

Woman's Quiz

Q. Can you tell me how to wash an upholstered chair?

A. You may shampoo it with a soap jelly made of 1 part neutral soap and 5 parts hot water. Cook the mixture and just before using it, beat it to a stiff lather with an egg beater. First brush the chair with a whisk broom or clean with a vacuum cleaner. Remove grease spots by scrubbing with carbon tetrachloride and a soft brush. Then try the soap suds on an inconspicuous spot to be sure that the color is fast. Apply the suds with a soft brush to small areas at a time and rinse each spot quickly with damp cloths. Overlap the areas to prevent streaking or spotting and take care not to use enough water to seep through and rust the springs.

Q. Should the leaves be removed from cut flowers before they are placed in water?

A. Cut off the leaves below the water level in the vase, as they will poison the water and cause the flowers to fade quickly.

Asparagus cheese soufflé makes a simple luncheon or dinner dish rich in nutritional value.

Eggs Contain Minerals and Vitamins

By Sally Saver.

Every wise homemaker plans to include plenty of foods rich in vitamins and minerals in her family's daily diet, for these protective elements help to promote good health and well being and serve to safeguard vital bodily functions. Eggs are among the important protective foods that should be included often in the menu.

They are rich in vitamin A, the vitamin B complex, and in iron and phosphorus. Eggs, therefore, serve, like milk, to reinforce the diet at several points and deserve special emphasis for their growth-promoting qualities.

Asparagus cheese soufflé is a main dish that is quickly and easily prepared, inexpensive and nutritionally rich. Serve it with hot buttered toast, a salad, beverage and dessert and the menu is complete. This soufflé has but three ingredients that can be combined in short order. But remember that the secret of a good soufflé, as is the case in all egg cookery, is slow cooking.

This one bakes slowly in the oven for an hour or an hour and fifteen minutes. Serve it immediately while it is hot and puffed up.

Asparagus-Cheese Soufflé.
1 can condensed asparagus soup
3-4 cup sharp cheese, grated
4 eggs, separated

Combine the grated cheese and the asparagus soup and heat until the cheese is melted. Then stir in the egg yolks, adding one yolk at a time and beating well after adding each yolk. Then cool. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold the asparagus mixture into the beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered casserole; then place the casserole in a pan with hot water. Bake in a 300 F. oven for 1 hour to 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serve immediately. Serves six.

Ginger Rogers Kissed Actor Seven Hours Without Pause

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, April 1.—Ginger Rogers kissed Burgess Meredith seven hours without interruption for a six-and-a-half-minute scene in "Tom, Dick and Harry." After the experience, Burgess left. But Ginger had only just started. When Fred Astaire came to the set to visit his ex-dancing partner, Ginger rushed over to him, flung her arms around his neck, and showered his cheek with kisses. This should dispel the long-standing story that Ginger and Fred dislike each other.

way to Miss Lupino. "It will look better to have the feminine star in the middle," he was told. "No," said John stubbornly. Finally his instincts of chivalry were appealed to. "It's the act of a gentleman to give way to a lady," the pleader said. "Look," said the exasperated Garfield, "I'll be a gentleman everywhere you like—except on the billboard!" But he must have yielded because the bill reads, "Robinson, Lupino, Garfield."

George Raft's buddy and bodyguard, Mack Grey, haunts the picture sets in the hope that a director will suddenly decide, "You're the man I'm looking for" for this or that role. When Frank Capra was making "Meet John Doe," Mack, weary or waiting to be discovered, approached Capra and said, "Please give me a bit in your picture. You don't have to pay me. I'll do it for the prestige." Capra was touched by his earnestness and gave him the role of a waiter. "He even pays me for it," says Mack. "I got the night of the premiere. 'I gets all dressed up,' the boy tells me. 'So what happens? My part is cut out!' Perhaps it was just as well."

Virginia Field was showing some friends a photograph of her king's counselor father in his legal wig and gown. A film agent with her asked, "What's he doing now?" "Nothing much," said Virginia. "Send him around to see me. I think I can get him a job!" said the agent. . . . The most embarrassed twosome in town—Jane Withers and Freddie Bartholomew, who have been commanded to make one weekly appearance together in a public spot to boost their soon-to-be-released pictures for Columbia. Jane, lucky girl, has not yet arrived at the age of male interest. And Freddie, who is just 17, is in (calif) love with a girl who lives in San Francisco.

Miss Smith Weds Benton E. Gaines At Chapel Rites

Miss Joyce Smith became the bride of Benton E. Gaines at a beautiful afternoon ceremony solemnized yesterday at 5:30 o'clock at the Sheffield Chapel at the Georgia Baptist hospital. Dr. Louie D. Newton read the marriage service, which was witnessed by a gathering of friends and relatives of the bride.

The lovely bride chose for her marriage a modish navy blue ensemble, the long coat being finished with a white collar held in place by jeweled clips. Her hat and accessories matched her costume and her flowers were a shoulder cluster of gardenias.

Miss Hallie Collier, the bride's maid of honor and only attendant, wore for the occasion a costume and hat of parma purple, completed by a bouquet of parma violets and roses.

The chapel was decorated in the bridal motif, with ferns massed to the rear of the pulpit and the altar centered with an urn filled with calla lilies. Tall white tapers in cathedral candelabra burned amid the foliage.

Richard H. Gaines served as his brother's best man and the ushers were Yantis C. Mitchell and W. Gordon Thurman. The wedding was presented by Miss Fannie Wortham, pianist. Mrs. W. W. Gaines, mother of the groom, chose for her son's marriage a becoming blue crepe ensemble worn with a matching hat and a spray of gardenias.

Mr. Gaines and his bride left for a wedding trip, which will include the resorts of Florida. On their return they will reside in Atlanta.

Junior League Elects Mrs. Edwin McCarty President, With Mrs. Hamm and Mrs. Montgomery Vice Presidents

Mrs. Edwin McCarty was elected president of the Atlanta Junior League at the meeting held yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club. Mrs. McCarty succeeds Mrs. Malon Courts, who has served most capably as president of the league for the past year.

Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. McCarty were Mrs. William Hamm, first vice president; Mrs. Bruce Montgomery, second vice president; Mrs. James Campbell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Davant Lawton, recording secretary, and Mrs. Errol Hay, treasurer.

Members elected to serve on the board of directors of the league included Mrs. Joseph Brennan, Mrs. Jack Glenn, Mrs. Hunter Bell, Mrs. Gus Ashcraft and Miss Beverly Bailey.

Mrs. McCarty has been active in Junior League affairs for a number of years and has been an outstanding member of the organization. During the past year she was placement chairman and a member of the finance committee, in which she has served for two years. She also was welfare chairman for two years, and served as publicity chairman for a similar period. Last year Mrs. McCarty was co-chairman of programs for the "Gone With the Wind" ball, sponsored by the league, and in addition she held the important position of chairman of Junior League Store Day several years ago.

In addition to her Junior League activities, Mrs. McCarty is vice president of the Sheltering Arms. For the past five years she has been a member of the Board

The Atlanta Junior League elected officers at the meeting held yesterday, the group including (reading down the steps), Mrs. William Hamm, first vice president; Mrs. Davant Lawton, recording secretary; Mrs. James Campbell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Bruce Montgomery, second vice president, and Mrs. Errol Hay, treasurer. The pair at the left includes Mrs. Malon Courts (at the extreme left), who is the retiring president, and Mrs. Edwin McCarty who was named as her successor.

Kline, ologist. Mrs. Hamm also reported on the reaction of children at the school to their first use of the portable electric multiple hearing aid machine, which was a gift to the school from Miss Virginia Campbell, League member. Through this machine many of the deaf children heard their own voices for the first time. Mrs. Russell Bridges Jr. has given to the school small desks for each pupil.

Mrs. Bonneau Ansley, education chairman, announced that the first of the three opera lectures to be given by Hugh Hodgson, under the joint sponsorship of the Junior League and the Atlanta Music Club, will be given on Saturday afternoon, April 5, at 3 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club. Mr. Hodgson's first lecture will be on the opera "Faust" by Gunod. Acting as co-chairman with Mrs. Ansley for these lectures is Mrs. Lloyd Hatcher. The lectures will be open to the public.

Mrs. Stephen Barnett, corresponding secretary, announced that Mrs. James Frazer Jr., the former Miss Ruth Mitchell, has transferred to the Atlanta League from Nashville.

Mrs. Edwin McCarty, placement chairman, reported on a recent meeting of her committee with representatives from the various welfare agencies in which Junior League volunteers work.

Mrs. William Nixon, hospitality chairman, announced that plans are being made for the final meeting of the year. This festive occasion always combines a short business meeting with a gala party. Details of the party will be announced at an early date. Mrs. Gus Ashcraft, chairman of Junior League volunteers at the newly-established Service Men's Center, announced that her committee, which includes Mrs. Lloyd Hatcher, Mrs. Martha Worth Rogers Kilpatrick and Miss Beverly Bailey, has completed a month's course of study at the Travelers' Aid headquarters in preparation for their work at the center. She also reported that the gift to the center of 10 card tables from the Junior League was greatly appreciated.

Homemakers' Club.

The Kirkwood Homemakers' Club met recently at the clubhouse. Mrs. H. H. Rochelle presided, and gave each member a yearbook with the compliments of the club. An interesting feature of the meeting was a plant exchange. A spend-the-day party was planned for April 3 at the home of Mrs. L. G. Dewberry.

Massengale, has been back since her marriage in Atlanta on June 1, 1940. Allyn is a member of Junior Charities in Greenville and the Junior League in Miami.

Peachtree on the Beach

By MAUDE KIMBALL MASSENGALE.

MIAMI BEACH, April 1.—Atlantans took over last week with five of the smartest parties being given by the visiting Georgians. Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins Jr. and her mother, Mrs. John Allen Smith, gave the largest of the parties, a tea on Friday at the beautiful Sunset Island home of the Hopkinses, and the event was more or less of a housewarming. Mrs. Howell Ross Hanson entertained at luncheon Thursday at the Whitman, the same day that Mrs. Vassar Woolley entertained in the gardens of her home over in Miami. Mrs. Whitman McGonigal and Mrs. Campbell McKenna were hostesses at a large dance Thursday night for Anne McGonigal, who arrived from Finch school, in New York, just in time to give a cursory glance at the social calendar for the remainder of the week and the beginning of next, and to get dressed for the party. Mrs. Thomas Dunham entertained Friday night for the young set. The most important event on this week's calendar as far as Atlanta is concerned is the cocktail party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. John George Simmons at their Altos road home. In small script the invitation says "surprise for Mr. Simmons."

When the Miami Junior League gave its provisional luncheon Tuesday at the Shoremeade, two names well known in Atlanta answered the roll call... Mrs. Stephen A. Lynch Jr. and Mrs. Lamar Little.

An "April Eve" party is the clever way the invitation is worded to Mrs. William F. Miss Seaman Weds R. W. Johnson Jr.

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., April 1.—Marriage of interest here and in Georgia was that of Miss Gloria Frances Seaman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elsworth Seaman, of Atlanta, and Robert Woodson Johnson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Johnson, of Atlanta, which took place here Monday afternoon at the Unitarian church.

Rev. W. H. Sharp, the pastor, officiated at 4 o'clock in the presence of relatives and friends of the couple. A musical program was presented by the church organist.

The altar was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns, amid which were placed tall pedestal baskets filled with lilies. On either side of the altar were cathedral candelabra.

Mrs. Gale Wisbach, as matron of honor and only attendant, was beautifully gowned in blue tulle trimmed with ribbon of the same shade. Her hat matched and her flowers were roses.

Entering with her father, Frank E. Seaman, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride was met at the altar by the groom and Gale Wisbach, who was best man. She was a beautiful figure in her wedding dress of ivory satin and duchess lace fashioned along princess lines and made with long sleeves and a train extending several yards in length. Her lace veil fell in graceful folds over her train from a halo of lace. The veil was showered with orange blossoms and seed pearls. The bride's flowers were orchids, and white freesias.

Mrs. Seaman, mother of the bride, was gowned in a model of blue silk with matching hat and accessories, and her flowers were pink roses. Mrs. Johnson, the groom's mother, wore a model of navy with matching accessories, and a navy straw hat. Her flowers were roses.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Seaman, parents of the bride, were hosts at a dinner for members of the wedding party and the two families at the Statler hotel. The table was covered with a white satin cloth and was decorated with silver candelabra holding white tapers. Plateaux of white flowers were placed at intervals down the center of the table.

The bridal couple left for a wedding trip to New England and to Washington and will later go to America, Ga., where they will reside. The bride traveled in a model of powder blue silk worn with a top coat to match. Her hat matched her gown and completing her ensemble were white orchids.

War Situation Should Boost Baseball Attendance, Frick Says

Club Owners Map Series of 'Service' Days

Many 'Extras' Planned by Majors, Including Oath Ceremonies.

By JACK CUDDY.
NEW YORK, April 1.—(UP)—The perennial demands for "something new" in baseball presentation unquestionably will be fulfilled this season because of the war situation.

Starting off with the opening days, April 14 and 15, the crowds will rise as usual in respect as the Star Spangled Banner is played, but they'll probably remain standing to participate in the Oath of Allegiance.

Clubowners of both circuits now are considering patriotic openings in which the oath to the flag will be featured—with the crowds repeating the oath after a voice on the loud speaker.

During the season there may be "service days"—like the "ladies' days" of past seasons. Right now the War and Navy Departments are considering the advisability of having such "days." The major league owners, desirous of extending every courtesy to men in uniform, have proffered a general welcome to the War and Naval Departments, and now are waiting their decisions. There is no certainty that these invitations will be accepted, because of the strenuous demands upon the time of the service men in training.

BRASS HATS BUSY.
A peek behind the baseball scenes reveals that the game's brass hats are giving as much consideration to the war situation as they are to the destinies of their current squads in the forthcoming pennant races.

For example, Ford Frick, president of the National League, sees silver lining in the war clouds unless the United States actually gets into the conflict.

Frick says, "If the present war situation prevails during the season, it should result in a robust increase in attendance throughout the majors because more people are working in the defense industries. That naturally will help the gates."

Frick believes that the draft will not affect major league ball immediately or drastically under current conditions because most major players are married or have developed into the source of livelihood for dependents.

However, Frick admits that even under current conditions the minor leagues will be affected.

KEARNS "SIGNS" JAKE ABEL—A "retake" of a bout staged at the city auditorium in 1919 is scheduled on Monday night's program. Jake Abel, left, yesterday agreed with Promoter Jack Kearns, right, to box an exhibition match with former Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard. One of the best boxing cards ever slated in Atlanta is in the offing.

vitality because in those circuits, generally speaking, the players are young, single and free of dependents.

Because of this draft drain upon the minors—feeding pipes to the majors—there will be a sharp curtailment of rookie talent for next year, even if we do not get into the war.

And what if we do enter the war?

Frick says, "In that case, your guess is as good as mine. There is no true test in the past upon which to base any conclusions. I do recall that in the previous war the 1918 major league season was shortened, after which the War Department asked the major leagues to go back to a normal season for 1919 as a psychological relief from war worries. But the armistice came late in 1918."

Frick was uncertain whether top-flight players could be developed in the service camps. During the last war, the major leagues contributed much baseball equipment to the soldiers and sailors, but this time the government will provide it.

AUBURN IDEL.
AUBURN, Ala., April 1.—The Auburn Tigers, who have won three and lost one in playing baseball games this season in rain and almost freezing weather, had their scheduled game with Montgomery Tuesday afternoon called off by the Rebels because of cloudy weather early in the morning.

Sharp SHOOTIN'

AUGUSTA NATIONAL GOLF CLUB, AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1.—Little was going on here this sunny, windy afternoon as golfers tuned up for the Masters' tournament, which gets under way Thursday.

Bob Jones, Ed Dudley, Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan were taking it easy in a friendly match, so we went out to see how the shooting was done. Bob was not playing especially well, but he had a par 36 on the front side and got Dudley and himself a 1-up margin with the only birdie on the long eighth hole.

Demaret, last year's winner who has been hitting the ball well since he got here, also had a 36. So did Dudley.

Hogan slipped to a 37, having a six on the eighth. Jones was short of the third green and missed a short putt at the fifth, getting bogeys on both holes. He made up for the slips with birdies on the long holes, hitting the second in two shots and pitching close at the eighth.

He saved a par at the fourth hole with a long putt after hooking into the sand on the par 3 affair. His chip dead to the sixth cup also was good for a par 3 hole toughened.

Jones did not score as well on the back nine. He was 2 over par coming to the 18th hole. His drive went in the trees, and he picked up after a bad second.

Giving him a 1-over-par 5 for that hole, Bob had a 39 for a 75. He and Dudley lost the match, 1 down.

Hogan had a par 72 for the round and Dudley a 73. Demaret, who also picked up on one hole, almost holed out at the 16th, stopping barely short.

Lawson Little's 68 was the best round reported. Byron Nelson had a 72, using 37 putts and only 35 shots to the green. He's the favorite, so watch out after a performance like that.

16th Hole Tougher.
One of the main changes around here made the sixteenth hole, a par 3, much tougher. The tee, which called for a shot across the creek, has been moved to the left.

Now the player is shooting down the ditch. A little drive is the answer for a perfect shot. The green slants to the right, and the creek and fade would give a man plenty of chance to get in the creek.

Speaking of changes, don't forget the clubhouse. The small rooms have been made into large lounges, both upstairs and down.

Razor Blade Smoothness
The greens are still the manicured carpets they always were. Some players claim a razor blade is used for touching them up. They're that perfect, you know.

Anyway, they're so fast that stroking a short putt is something not to do. Just a tap for the little ones and you have to play the break to a split hair or the ball won't drop.

It's hard to believe some of the things the ball will do on the undulating greens. Jones hit one putt today that followed the general route of a pig's tail. It broke two ways and went over a pair of waves.

It's true putting that pays off here, as it does in all tournaments. But the gent who is playing his irons well has a great advantage. After all, those second shots close to the pins count heavier on greens which would trick a fortune teller with or without a crystal ball.

Good irons to these greens take a ton or so of pressure off a player's putting.

Engel Urges Two-Bit Fee For Soldiers

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 1.—(AP)—President Joe Engel, of the Chattanooga Lookouts, went to the aid of soldier-baseball fans today with a recommendation that the men in khaki be admitted to Southern association games for 25 cents.

Engel's proposal would permit members of the armed forces to occupy grandstand seats where association rules call for a charge of 75 cents. Bleacher seats cost 50 cents under the price scale.

"It's a good thing for baseball to do this," said Engel. "Those fellows quit good jobs for military training at $21 a month. They can't be expected to continue as baseball fans at 50 and 75-cent admission prices and they ought not to have to pay the price."

The Lookout leader placed his proposal before President Trammell Scott, of the association, and was told nothing could be done until a meeting of the directors.

Engel said such a meeting was to be held at an early date and that he would seek sanction of the 25-cent charge.

"Five of the eight clubs could benefit from attracting the soldiers if we want to look at it from the selfish standpoint," said Engel. "Only Birmingham, Memphis and Knoxville are too far from camps to profit in their home parks."

Waddell's triple and Burge's infield out scored another Cracker run in the sixth. The ninth came in the eighth inning when Ferrera, batting for Poindeexter, walked. So did Thomassie. Waddell forced Thomassie and Ryan popped to first. Burge singled, scoring Ferrera.

Montreal's big ninth started when Chipman walked. Becker, Jungman beat out a hit to first. Rogers flied to Thomassie and Rojeck hit a short single to left, filling the bases. Becker scored on a wild pitch. Ramazzotti, batting for West, walked, filling the sacks again. Bell singled to left, scoring Jungman and Rojeck. Jensen beat out a slow roller down the first base line. Chipman sprained his ankle on the play and was replaced by Cortes. Singles by Stalder and Fash and a wild pitch scored four more runs. However, Cortes settled down and got Becker and Jungman to end it.

FEDERATION CONVENES.
The second organization meeting of the Atlanta Amateur Softball Federation will be held 7:30 o'clock tonight at 441 Pryor street.

All managers of class A and medium-strength teams are invited to attend. The federation, which is headed by Dusty Speer, has secured the use of Warren Field and all night games will be played there on Mondays through Fridays.

At the last meeting the teams voted to play twice weekly. Under this setup only two teams will be able to operate at Warren. According to present plans, these two teams will be close out tonight. It is probable that the federation will sponsor a twilight league. If this league materializes, it will be played at another field, probably Exposition Cotton Mills' diamond, which is also lighted for night play.

Teams desiring information regarding this organization should call Director Speer at MA. 7137.

often find so many good boys on the same card. I'm inclined to agree with Jack Kearns when he says that the same show in New York City might command a fancy top.

The exhibition between Jake Abel and Benny Leonard harks back to the good old days of the game. They fought in the city auditorium here in 1919—10 rounds to a decision, Leonard winning. It was the same year Jack Dempsey knocked out Jess Willard for the heavyweight championship.

It has been 20 years since Jake Abel has put on the gloves but he feels he can go three rounds with Leonard, one of the game's greatest lightweight boxers, in good fashion.

Overheard "Better look out today," a fellow remarked to a friend seated by him on the street car, "it's April Fool's day."

"Oh, I don't know," this friend, called professor, responded, "did you know Bismarck was born on April 1? He was no April fool. Kaiser Wilhelm would have been a lot better off if he'd listened to him. But he got the big head. Do you realize he was only 28 when he first ruled the German people?"

Before we got to my stop the professor had discussed everything from German measles to whole wheat pound cake. And not once did he mention the Crackers!

the longest being a triple by young Charlie Waddall, who blasted one to right in the sixth which would have been a home run if it had not hit the light tower and bounced back into the playing field.

Charlie Glock, Emil Mailho and Buddy Bates got doubles, Bates' being a mighty wallop to the left field bleachers. Counting roll and all, it must have been 400 feet—a pretty hard wallop just for two bases. Connie Ryan came through with a pair of singles and Mailho got a single to add to his total.

The Royals collected 10 hits, all singles, but six of them came in the last inning.

WANTS MORE PUNCH.
Manager Paul Richards is still not satisfied with the way his club is hitting, and after the game, he had several of the boys remain for batting practice.

Chipman sprained his ankle in the ninth going after a slow roller between first and second. He will be out of action for at least a week.

Little Pete Thomassie, popular center fielder, went hitless for the first time since the club returned to Atlanta but he made several nice catches, going up on the bank for one of them.

Mailho led off the Cracker half of the third with a double and the scoring began. Ryan and Burge drew walks from Gassaway, leading the bases. Glock grounded out, Mailho scoring. Bates doubled to left, scoring Ryan and Burge. Bergmann grounded out and Bates went to third to score on a wild pitch.

The Crackers treated Falcone but little better in the fourth. With one out, Mailho singled to right. He went to third on a pair of wild pitches and Ryan drove him home with a single. Burge walked again and Ryan went to third and Burge to second on Falcone's third wild pitch of the inning. Glock doubled to score both of them.

Waddell's triple and Burge's infield out scored another Cracker run in the sixth. The ninth came in the eighth inning when Ferrera, batting for Poindeexter, walked. So did Thomassie. Waddell forced Thomassie and Ryan popped to first. Burge singled, scoring Ferrera.

Montreal's big ninth started when Chipman walked. Becker, Jungman beat out a hit to first. Rogers flied to Thomassie and Rojeck hit a short single to left, filling the bases. Becker scored on a wild pitch. Ramazzotti, batting for West, walked, filling the sacks again. Bell singled to left, scoring Jungman and Rojeck. Jensen beat out a slow roller down the first base line. SHE LOVED A SPY

Paul Suspects Mrs. Murdock. Joan Believes Sybil Is Still Alive

By Sylvia Taylor

SYNOPSIS.
Synopsis of preceding chapters: Joan Leland and her older sister, Sybil, who share a San Francisco apartment, Joan's job is the same day. Joan answers an ad and at a North Beach night club Karl Miller hires her as secretary at $50 a week, and pays her two weeks in advance. He is a handsome, powerfully-built man, with a trace of foreign accent, and Joan finds him fascinating. Sybil thinks there's something shady about the club life and wants Joan to quit, but she accepts a beauty shop job Karl gets her through a Mrs. Murdock. As Joan is thanking Karl for helping Sybil, he takes her in his arms and kisses her. His manager, Paul Sherman, appears just then and she is resentful when Paul warns her later to watch her step. She notices that Paul shadows her and Karl, and Paul warns her that Karl will never marry her, but soon Karl makes her happy by proposing. Karl introduces Eric Strom as his silent partner, returns to find Strom dead. Karl asks her to leave the room. She hears a shot, returns to find Strom dead. Karl accuses her of the murder. Karl admits he is a spy, says Strom tried to double-cross him, warns Joan not to notify the police and tells her he has a wife in Germany. He says she will be kept under guard and drives her home. She finds a note from Sybil stating that she has been kidnapped and her phone wire is cut. Paul, entering by a rear window, tells her he was silent when Karl accused her because he is Paul O'Malley, a FBI man.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

Paul shrugged. "Probably just a title. I don't know who actually put up the money, but I am certain that Eric worked under Karl. And Karl works under some other person?"

"Right! And someone else who will bear watching is this Mrs. Murdock, who supposedly owns the beauty shop where Sybil worked."

At that moment the doorbell rang.

Paul had scarcely finished speaking when the doorbell of the apartment rang. Joan and Paul exchanged glances.

"Karl!" Joan cried in alarm, but Paul shook his head.

"I don't think so," he said, going to the door.

A middle-aged woman, well-dressed, rather heavy-set, with dyed black hair and expressionless black eyes, stood waiting.

"May I see Miss Leland," she inquired. "I am Mrs. Murdock."

Joan rose quickly from her place by the fire. Mrs. Murdock, Sybil's employer! And only a moment ago Paul had been saying that this woman would bear watching.

"Do come in," Paul said pleasantly. "I am Karl Miller's manager, Mr. Sherman."

Mrs. Murdock nodded her head slightly. "Yes, I know."

"And this is Miss Leland, Sybil's sister."

The three of them sat down by the fire. "I was so sorry to hear of your sister's unfortunate accident," Mrs. Murdock said delicately.

Joan looked at Paul. These had been Karl's words, "unfortunate accident." But Paul seemed not to notice.

"I feel it my duty," Mrs. Murdock continued tonelessly, "to tell you certain facts. First, that I discharged Sybil two days ago."

"Discharged?" Joan repeated in astonishment. "But Sybil didn't tell me anything about it."

The older woman looked uncomfortable. "Her work was not entirely satisfactory. I was sorry but I had to let her go."

"Sybil was one of the best beauty operators in this city," Joan flared.

"Just a minute," Paul interrupted. Mrs. Murdock adjusted her furs with the gesture of one who is doing her duty and finds it annoying.

Her attitude irritated Joan. She did not trust this face, with its jet-black eyes and wide cheekbones. The woman was expensively dressed but there was something unpleasant about her. No wonder Sybil had not liked her. She had the same aloof expression as Karl; an expression of cynical amusement and assurance that she had the situation well in hand.

"Sybil," Mrs. Murdock went on, "was very upset. She told me she needed the money desperately."

"That isn't true!" Joan snapped. Mrs. Murdock shrugged. "That is what she told me. When I told her that I was letting her go she became hysterical and threatened to do away with herself. I told this to the police when they called on me an hour ago. There can't be any question that it was suicide."

"Very kind of you to come to see Miss Leland. She is upset naturally, but it's always better to know the truth," Paul's voice was smooth.

Joan did not look up. Better to let Paul handle this. She did not feel equal to keeping her temper with Mrs. Murdock, and not for one minute did she believe that Sybil had been discharged or that she threatened to take her own life. Sybil would not do that.

Paul went to the door with Mrs. Murdock and watched her disappear down the hall. When he returned to the fireplace, he said, "Well, what do you think?"

"The whole thing's a lie," Joan insisted.

"It fits together too well," Paul admitted. "The truth is never that logical. This Murdock woman is undoubtedly involved with Karl."

"How can we prove it?" Paul asked.

"We've got to do something! Sybil may be alive and in danger."

"We must have patience," Paul told her. "These things don't work out overnight and we can't afford to rush it."

They regarded each other gravely—earnest in their youth, desperate in their desire to solve this problem.

"The whole world's a mess," Paul said bitterly.

"We seem to be playing a losing game. We're so helpless."

Paul patted her hand. "Everything's going to be all right."

She had never liked him better than she did at this moment, standing tall and grave beside her, with tenderness and understanding in his brown eyes. Paul could be trusted. But even at that moment the thought of Karl Miller flashed into her mind. The subtle fascination of Karl, the Karl she had loved, still held her prisoner.

Joan wondered how she could ever break the spell of that dream which had enchanted her for so long; that dream which was now only a memory and yet still enslaved her. Paul was kind, good. Karl was cruel, yet there was power even in his cruelty.

Seeing the swiftly changing emotion in her eyes, Paul said, "You'll get over it, Joan. But it won't be easy."

"I hate him and everything he stands for."

"Sure, I know."

She bit her lip and turned away, ashamed that he could read her heart so well, ashamed to admit her own defeat.

She did not love Karl Miller, the spy, the murderer of Eric, but in her heart was still that other Karl, tender, adoring, murmuring "liebchen."

She told herself that this man had never really existed. He had been a creature of her own imagination. Yet in a few days she could not forget. She could not completely destroy this image, shattered as it was.

Paul took her hand gently. "It will work out. It must."

"I know." His understanding broke down her last defense. She hid her face against his shoulder and wept. "But I'll never get over it. Never."

"I'd like to break his rotten neck," Paul said, but Joan did not hear him. She was comforted by this sympathetic shoulder, by this kind reception of her tears. She needed someone to talk to so much, now that Sybil was gone.

The days of December dragged to a close. Christmas passed. Paul spent the day with Joan, taking her to dinner at a quiet restaurant. They spoke little.

Paul attempted to cheer her, but his efforts produced little effect.

"Karl said we wouldn't be needed at the club New Year's Eve. Would you like to go out?"

Joan glanced about the brilliantly decorated restaurant, the shining Christmas tree and light bedecked wreaths in the windows. "It doesn't seem fair for us to celebrate while we don't know what's happened to Sybil."

"I don't think Sybil would want you to worry. Let's try it anyway. Shall we, Joan?"

"We'll try," she promised.

New Year's Eve arrived, clear and cold. Joan wore a green satin dress to match her eyes. She had intended to wear the black velvet—the dress she had worn so many times with Karl—but the sight of it brought back poignant memories, and tearfully he put it away in the back of her closet, and changed it for the green one that Karl had never seen.

Paul brought gardenias, waxy pale and fragrant. "You look very lovely, Joan," he told her and she was glad that he had not said "beautiful" . . . Karl always said that.

She made a valiant attempt to enjoy herself, and though the evening proved to be not particularly gay, Joan found Paul entertaining.

"I've been watching Mrs. Mur-dock's beauty shop," he reported. "And I'm convinced there's something funny about it. I've seen her coming and going from the shop as late as 2 o'clock in the morning. Once I thought I saw Karl with her."

"How can you get proof?"

"You are going to have your hair fixed there next week," Paul informed her. "Look the place over and see if you see anything suspicious, tell me. You might even try to see Mrs. Murdock in her private office. If there's anything going on, you may find evidence there. Try to be pleasant with her. You probably put her on her guard the last time you saw her."

Joan leaned closer to hear him. The laughing, screaming crowd all around them made conversation difficult. A spray of confetti fell across Joan's shoulder. The blare of trumpets droned in their ears.

Paul smiled. "Let's dance."

Holding her close, he guided her through the mob. It was hard to dance in the crowd but Joan found the happiness of others infectious. It was difficult to be disappointed in the midst of this laughing throng.

"Life at this moment isn't so bad, is it?" Paul whispered.

"It doesn't seem so . . . if it weren't for Sybil."

"I'm sure she's alive," Paul comforted.

"It's almost the New Year."

"Any resolutions?" Paul asked, smiling.

"Not one, except maybe never to fall in love again."

"So long as you don't give up your friends."

She smiled at him. "You're the best friend I have, Paul. In fact, you are the only one I have right now."

"I'm glad I haven't any competition."

They laughed and suddenly the lights were dimmed, the bells pealed.

"Happy New Year!" Paul cried and he held her hands tightly in his, but he did not kiss her.

"The same to you, Paul."

The orchestra started to play, "Auld Lang Syne." With hands clasped, Joan and Paul joined in the singing.

"It's good-bye to the past," Joan thought. "Good-bye to Karl and all the things that such a little while ago were important."

And then she saw Karl Miller, handsome, smiling Karl, and he was not alone. A girl clung to his arm, a girl so freshly lovely, so heartbreakingly young that sympathy swept through Joan's heart.

"Look!" she said to Paul. "Karl has a new girl."

As Paul's eyes followed hers, his face grew white.

"What is it, Paul?" Joan asked as they stared at Karl Miller and the girl at his side.

"Let's get out of here," Paul said grimly. "I don't want them to see us."

Escape for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chirolgist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—The entire day is auspicious for dealings with loved ones, for literary efforts, for making plans for the future. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 3:30 p. m. The day does not especially favor making sudden changes or for putting into practice radical ideas.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—Energy and ambition will be high previous to 2:50 p. m. making this a propitious time for having dealings with managers, officials, and selected people. After 3:50 p. m. will be better to retrench and conserve your efforts for your decisions may be somewhat clouded or marked with indecision.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—The best aspects of the day operate previous to 12:44 p. m. suggests sticking to routine.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—The morning hours until 11:32 a. m. favors personal matters and regular business pursuits. Between 11:32 a. m. and 5:08 p. m. avoids unconditioned and irregularity in business affairs. After 5:08 p. m. favors industrial matters.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—The entire day does not especially favor new beginnings. Handle electrical equipment and motor vehicles especially carefully today. The day does not especially favor signing important papers and use caution in dealings with relatives.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—Previous to 11:14 p. m. the influences favor general business activities, dealings with executives, officials and seeking favors.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—Before 10:52 a. m. favors attention to only ordinary routine matters. The remainder of the day you can give full rein to your activities, whether business, sports or social.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—The entire day is excellent for contacts that will better your credit, your career and your business. However, much care should be given to travel, to signing contracts and papers that call for your signature.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—Previous to 11:25 a. m. favors expansion along financial lines. An excellent period for banking in education, legal and banking interests. During the afternoon and evening, proceed cautiously in dealings of an unusual nature.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—A suspicious day to improve conditions of your life and to undertake work of a constructive nature. The entire day favors general business activities, social and domestic matters.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—More will be accomplished today if you go along the path of the least resistance and continue efforts that have been started previously.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—Before 4:30 p. m. you may have the impulse to impulsively speak sharply, for your nerves may be on edge. Travel and change are apt to result adversively or many hindrances. You may have the desire to go ahead regardless, but calmness will be of great utility. After 4:30 p. m. you will likely be able to make better adjustments in your work and can plan

140 Paroles Wait Approval Of Talmadge

Governor's Signature Required Before Prisoners Are Freed.

Governor Talmadge's approval on 140 paroles recommended by the State Prison and Parole Commission since February 25 is expected within the next two weeks.

His signature is required under a law passed by the 1941 legislature. Heretofore the commission alone could grant them.

Although Governor Talmadge himself insisted on the passage of the new law, some prisoners who have been recommended for parole are serving as much as four and five weeks longer than their required time. In these cases the board has requested their paroles, but cannot release the men until the grants are approved by the Governor.

The delay in gubernatorial action was attributed to the press of business.

Prison commission officials said that 49 of the recommendations represented misdemeanor cases and 91 were felonies.

Since the new law has gone into effect, February 19, the Governor has approved six paroles sent to him by the prison commissions and has granted two pardons.

Atlanta Smoke Nuisance Held Unnecessary

Visiting Engineer Describes Method for Checking Problem.

By WILLARD COPE.

Any numbo-jumbo about the necessity for a smoke nuisance in Atlanta was cleared away swiftly and succinctly here yesterday by the head of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He made it clear that it is just a question of will—that no mechanical difficulties lie in the path.

The speaker, Dr. William A. Hanley, of Indianapolis, Ind., a corporation director and Purdue University trustee, gave his authoritative expressions in an interview between sessions of the society, which has been meeting here since Monday.

Method Described.

"It is perfectly possible to burn soft coal efficiently and economically so that there will be no smoke or soot," he said. "It is a question of progressive combustion as opposed to swift burning. Soft coal contains from 20 per cent to 35 per cent of highly volatile matter. When it is burned quickly this material goes up the chimney and out over the city."

"The small stoker, which feeds the coal very slowly, has proved the answer in Indianapolis and other cities that have solved this smoke problem. Slow heating-up is the total answer.

"In solving the problem it is necessary to begin with the big fellows—the large stacks that belch forth those dark and noisy clouds. The little fellow must be reached gradually. In St. Louis they have a processed coal for these little fellows. Among the very poor homes, which are to be encountered in numbers in Atlanta, as in other cities, you can't expect machine installations. It must be a treated coal."

Training Discussed.

In busy technical sessions during the day the society dealt particularly with national defense, power, steam and the education and training of engineering specialists. The relation of such training to defense was expounded by S. D. Moxley, iron pipe executive of Birmingham, who showed how depression-born neglect of youth by industry was causing difficulty today.

"It can hardly be doubted," Moxley said, "that our greatest shortage is skilled and semi-skilled craftsmen. This difficulty is obviously the result of a decade of depressed industrial activity when relatively few young men were trained in the skills of industry. At the time we were conscious of what would happen even with a partial recovery of peacetime business, but we could not, or certainly did not, do much about it."

Need Craftsmen.

"We are now facing war-time production with a generation of young men inadequately trained for industry. If we had an adequate supply of skilled craftsmen, the problem of machine tools and other 'bottlenecks' would not be nearly so acute."

Army material inspection was discussed by General R. W. Case, commander of the Watertown, Mass., arsenal.

Today's sessions will deal in part with tung and vegetable oils, important to the south.

E. W. O'Brien, of Atlanta, presented papers on students in a competition of papers on technical subjects. Lewis F. Gordon, banker, of Atlanta, delivered a luncheon address.

Georgia Printers Oppose Plant at Tattall Prison

The Georgia Printing Trades Conference is opposed to state operation of a printing plant at Tattall prison.

A committee headed by John A. Manry, of Atlanta, called on Governor Eugene Talmadge Monday and presented a written objection. "We sincerely believe the citizens of our state would be benefited if the printing plant now being operated by the state would be discontinued by selling all present equipment and not purchasing more," the committee's statement said.

Georgian Is Given Grant For Pellagra Research

An additional grant of $5,000 for continued research into the control of pellagra has been awarded Dr. Virgil P. Sydenstricker, of the University of Georgia School of Medicine.

One scholarship was announced by the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation, of New York City, which gave a scholarship to Dr. Sydenstricker last year for his research.

Private Capital Reserve Bank Will Be Sought Lists Business For Housing Gain in South

U. S. To Ask for Help in Financing Defense Projects.

The federal government is going to ask private capital to help out with defense housing projects by doing some of the building.

Representatives from home loan banks in five southern states meeting here discussed private financing of permanent defense housing units.

Private capital will be asked to undertake only units which have been designated as permanent. David Ford, assistant governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said. The meeting was called by the board.

The number of these projects cannot be estimated now, Ford said. He declared private capital would be asked to build units in the following Georgia towns: Atlanta, Columbus, Augusta, Hinesville, Rossville, Macon and Savannah.

Chewing Gum Wrappers Are Offered for Defense

CHICAGO, April 1.—(AP)—A half million pounds of aluminum to make chewing gum wrappers was offered for national defense purposes today by the William Wrigley Jr. company.

In a communication to E. R. Stettinius, director of the United States priorities board of the Office of Production Management, President Philip K. Wrigley said "in the interest of national defense we will be more than glad to change our wrappings and make available to you our entire stock of aluminum ingots."

The company estimated the aluminum stock was large enough to produce 996 complete airplane wings for Army and Navy craft.

Comfortable gains in business and industrial activities, in keeping with the general trend attending the defense program, were experienced by states in the sixth federal reserve district during February.

Department store sales, a monthly report of the Federal Reserve Bank reveals, took an unusually strong spurt and life insurance purchases climbed, while wholesale trading declined less than is customary for this time of the year.

States comprising the sixth district are Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

Advances in cotton consumption, production of pig iron and coal, construction contracts awarded and building permits reflected the improved status of industrial output.

Mills in Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee consumed 5 per cent less cotton during the 24 business days of February than in the longer month of January, but the daily rate climbed 3 per cent to a new high for the district and was 27 per cent better than it was last February.

An indication that farmers were depending less on government benefits was seen in figures showing benefit payments had dropped 6 per cent.

Total loans and investments of reporting banks in the district, after declining somewhat in January, perked up in February and the first half of March. The report showed total loans and loans for commercial, industrial and agricultural purposes at the highest levels in years.
